HONOR ULSTER HEROES—Ulster County on Monday honored its Civil War dead at Gettysburg Battlefield, Pa., on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the most decisive battle of the war. The Ulster delegation including (l-r) Will Plank of Marlboro, chairman of the New York Civil War Centennial Commission; Supervisor Peter M. Williams, Saugerties, Republican majority leader of Ulster County Board of Supervisors, and John E. Marquardt, deputy clerk of the board, place a wreath at the monument honoring the 80th New York Infantry, Ulster Guard. They also placed a wreath at the base of the monument honoring the 120th Infantry, Washington Guard. Both were outstanding units and suffered heavy casualties in the battle.

Negroes Pausing To Get Bearings For Future Moves

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The slackening of mass demonstrations by Negroes in the wake of widespread racial unrest last month was attributed by their leaders today to coincidence, bi-racial talks and strategy conferences.

Note Progress

Integration leaders said the lull also resulted partly from progress on desegregation. Also, leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) have been tied up in national conferences. King and the heads of six other anti-segregation organizations met behind closed doors in New York City Tuesday to coordinate plans for a civil rights march on Washington Aug. 28. The meeting was so secret that even aides of the leaders were sent from the room.

President Is Facing Decision

May Mean Accord Or Be Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was faced upon his return from Europe today with a decision on whether to treat Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new proposals as propaganda or as a real opening toward an East-West accord.

The Soviet leader, in a major address in East Berlin, called in vague terms for a ban on atmospheric nuclear tests and a non-aggression pact between the rival NATO and Warsaw military alliances.

Lacks Many Answers

A radio-monitored text of Khrushchev's speech began arriving at the State Department Tuesday as Kennedy headed home.

Washington authorities promptly started a careful analysis, but found many questions unanswered.

A State Department press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, declined immediate comment.

Initial private reactions among other officials ranged widely from speculation that a break in the cold war logjam may be in sight to an assessment that Khrushchev intends only to reap a propaganda harvest at the West's expense.

All agreed that important details needed to be clarified.

Kennedy must decide soon how to deal with the Khrushchev proposal, for he is sending Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman to Moscow for renewed test ban negotiations starting July 15.

The East Berlin speech rates as the main recent indicator of the Soviet position on this issue. But officials here raised these major questions about the Khrushchev offer:

1. Is Khrushchev proposing an unqualified moratorium on underground atomic explosions in addition to a ban on other nuclear tests?

Nikita's Statement

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union will agree to outlawing "nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water."

The West has proposed such a partial ban too, saying it can be policed by detection systems based outside the Soviet Union.

The Soviets always have conditioned acceptance of a partial ban by insisting also on an inspection.

Assumes County TB, Health Job In Mid-August

A Glens Falls man, who is a descendant of early settlers in Kingston and Ulster County, is the new executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

E. Robert Johnson, currently executive director of the Health Association of Warren County, assumes his new post August 12. He succeeds Miss Hazel M. Steed who left this month to become program director for the Indiana Tuberculosis Association with offices in Indianapolis.

Native of Dutchess

Born at Rhinebeck Jan. 25, 1923, he attended Vandenberg School at New Paltz Teachers College; the Kerhonkson High School and graduated from the Franklin D. Roosevelt High School, East Park, in 1942. He then attended the School of General Studies, Columbia University, and the College of The City of New York on a Public Library scholarship, serving as supervisor of the Talking Books Department, 1953-56, producing in that period the library exhibit: How the Blind Read and Write.

After working as account executive in advertising and in preparation of corporate analytical reports, he turned to the voluntary health field. Here his career has been far-reaching. For five years ending in 1961, he was director of health education for the Rensselaer County Tuberculosis and Health Association at Troy. From that post he went to the Warren County Association.

A member of the program committee of the New York State Committee, and the State Conference to Plan the Executive Directors' Institute for September this year, he also is a member of the National Rehabilitation Association, Capitol District; the New York State Conference of TB and Health Workers and the National Conference of TB Workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson both have been active in the civic life of their community. He has program chairman of the Kensington Road School P-T-A; as health chairman, Adirondack District of the State P-T-A and as a member of the program committee of the Glens Falls Association.

2 Court Jobs Filled for This Area

Judicial posts were filled today for Family Court judge of Ulster County and special city judge of Kingston.

Special City Judge Hugh Ross Elwyn of 335 Pearl Street was named Family Court judge, and Bernard A. Feeney Jr., Mountain View Avenue, chairman of the city's Charter Revision Committee, and a member of Kingston Zoning Board, was appointed to fill the vacancy of special city judge.

Other Appointments

Elwyn was one of three named today by Governor Rockefeller to fill judicial posts created by the 1963 session of the Legislature. Others are Mrs. Elizabeth B. Golding of Massapequa and William J. Dempsey of Mineola, both named to Family Court posts in Nassau County.

In each case, the Family Court appointments were to Dec. 31. All three posts will be filled for regular terms in the November elections.

Judge Elwyn's name is expected to be presented as a candidate for the full term at the unofficial county Republican convention Saturday, July 13 at Kingston Municipal Auditorium.

Salary Is $20,000

Under the law the minimum salary of Family Court judge shall be $20,000 a year, the same as the separate county judge. A native of Woodstock, Judge Elwyn, 48, has been a resident of Kingston for more than 20 years, and has practiced law since he was admitted to the bar in 1939.

He attended local schools and received his AB Degree from Union College, Schenectady in 1935. In 1939 he was graduated from Albany Law School with his LL.B. Degree and was admitted to the practice of law the same year. Judge Elwyn has taken post graduate at the Judge Advocate General School, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and at Code and Cypher School, Oxford University, England.

Kline Succeeds Gilday

Optometrist Is Named As School Board Head

Officers of the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated were elected Tuesday afternoon at an organizational meeting, at which David Kline, of 10 Len Court, an optometrist, was chosen as president.

Kline, who defeated Benson A. Krom, former vice president, received six votes against three for Krom. Kline will succeed Andrew T. Gilday, who did not seek election to another term.

Withall Vice President

Trustee Krom was uncontested for the office of vice president, but he declined, stating he has only one year to serve of his present term, and he felt a trustee should be named to the office.

Arthur H. Withall was elected vice president to succeed Trustee Krom.

Acting Superintendent of Schools M. Clifford Miller was elected acting clerk of the board, succeeding Superintendent of Schools Earl F. Soper, who will assume his new duties as superintendent of the Long Beach, L. I. schools, next month.

Mrs. Edna S. Morgan was re-elected collector-treasurer of the school district for another term. Trustee Kline was nominated for the office of president by Gifford R. Beal. The nomination was seconded by Trustee Hubert M. Hoderath, who began a five-year term on the board on July 1. Trustee Krom was nominated by Trustee Bernard Singer, with Trustee Howard L. Fox seconding the nomination.

The nomination of Trustee Withall for vice president was made by Trustee Samuel S. Pepper, a new member of the board, and Trustee Beal seconded the nomination.

Notes Tasks Ahead

After taking office, Trustee Kline noted that important matters pending before the board include the appointment of a new superintendent of schools to succeed Dr. Soper and the opening of the new J. Watson Bailey School in September, which will end double sessions.

Ordinance Written About Sprinklers

Three measures affecting urban renewal, two dealing with a 135-unit housing development plan, were approved Tuesday night by the Common Council, which also voted to test alternate-side parking on Hoffman Street, and adopted an ordinance prohibiting the shutting off of fire-protection sprinkler systems without authorization.

A development plan for a low-cost housing project in the downtown urban renewal area, requires early approval, George E. Yerry Jr., housing authority chairman explained by letter, to assure the city that it will be included within the 15 per cent limitation of funds imposed on the state by the federal government.

No state is allowed more than 15 per cent of federal funds for public housing.

$2,228,816 Total

The housing authority lists a total development cost of $2,228,816 for the project, which could be built in a Hasbrouck Avenue-Murray Street area.

One of the other measures dealing with urban renewal, as explained by Mayor John J. Schwenk, called for "a resolution authorizing the filing of a revised survey and planning application to provide for boundary changes in connection with Kingston's urban renewal project."

The changes, he wrote, "will permit further development of plans to bring about improvement of the street pattern, better traffic flow, expansion of parking facilities and overall improvement of the area."

The added new section will have boundaries along Taylor Street and Hurley Avenue, parts of Joy's Lane and Lucas Avenue, new areas along Green and John Streets, and Clinton Avenue, and will generally straighten the boundaries in that section.

Letter of Assurance

The other measure adopted dealt with a "letter of intent" giving assurance that the city is to conform with all state laws affecting urban renewal, including those opposing discrimination in public housing.

Mayor Schwenk explained in a letter that adoption of a resolution was required "in compliance with the directive of the New York State Division of Housing and Community Renewal."

"The adoption and issuance of such a letter of intent, which commits the city to carry out the urban renewal program in both the spirit and letter of the state laws," he said, "is a requirement necessary to assure state financial assistance and project approval."

Earlier, similar legislation dealt with acknowledgement of the Presidential order against discrimination.

Payments to Be Made

A letter from Housing Authority President Jerry, read and filed, noted annual payments to be made for the housing project in lieu of taxes. It said:

"The Kingston Housing Authority is developing a housing

BEATING THE HEATWAVE—Thousands flocked to the beaches and waterways of the area Thursday as the temperature soared to 99, one degree short of a record set in 1955 and 1958. The high of 99 yesterday was recorded by the City Engineer's Office at 4:06 p. m. Earlier in the afternoon Kingston residents here began filling the beach on the shore of the Hudson at Kingston Point. The weather man promised some relief today and a possible cooling trend through the holiday with less humidity and readings in the middle 80's. (Freeman photo)

Says GOP Faces Major Test on CR Legislation

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans face a major test in Congress on civil rights legislation, says Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Wilkins, in a keynote address Monday night to some 4,000 persons attending the kick-off meeting of the 54th annual convention of the NAACP, said "If in this human rights crisis, the Republican party has nothing to offer the Negro, then it has nothing of real value to offer the nation."

The Negro leader said the legislative fight, "in a very real sense, will be a test of the raison d'être (reason for being) of the Republican party."

Wilkins, applauded more than 25 times by a calm, receptive, mostly Negro audience in a church auditorium on Chicago's South Side, had special criticism for two top Republicans—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Senate minority leader.

Wilkins said the NAACP intends "this year and next to work actively for the defeat in the next election of those lawmakers who fail to support and vote for strong civil rights legislation."

Dirksen's leadership in the civil rights fight "can bring on moral disaster for the Republican party," Wilkins said. Dirksen opposes the section of President Kennedy's bill which would ban refusal of service to Negroes by places of public accommodation.

Wilkins' criticism of Goldwater, a spokesman for the party's conservatives, centered on what he called the senator's insistence on leaving the solution of race relations problems to the states.

To Handle Fair Tickets

UTICA—Mohawk Airlines today was named an official New York World's Fair Ticket and Information Agency. As a result, the airline will be able to offer reduced-rate Fair tickets to its passengers. The announcement was made jointly by Robert Moses, Fair president, and Robert E. Peach, Mohawk president. "Since we expect to play a vital role in carrying visitors to and from the Fair in the next two years, we feel it is especially appropriate that we be designated an official agent," Peach said. "We certainly will do all we can to make the Fair a tremendous success."

Bus Skids Off Thruway

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Two women suffered minor injuries Tuesday night when a Greyhound bus skidded off the State Thruway near here and hit an embankment head-on. Sixteen passengers were aboard the bus.

State Police said the bus driver, Jerome J. Reger, 32, of Rochester, told them the bus skidded along a ditch, back onto the superhighway and then into the embankment.

Most of Petitions Rejected as UsualRecord 2,824 Cases Went To Supreme Court in Term

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Justice Felix Frankfurter once said the Supreme Court is not a "dozing audience." The nine justices, who don't have time for dozing, were busier than ever this year.

A record 2,824 cases were laid in the court's lap for review in the 1962-63 term just ended. This was three times the yearly average before World War II and an increase of more than 1,000 cases over five years ago.

Two Basic Reasons
The court, as usual, rejected

most of the petitions but gave majority opinions in 110. The previous term the figure was 85. Why the increase in the number of cases?

One reason is that so many more prisoners in state and federal penitentiaries have learned how to write petitions. Another is the population increase, meaning more cases handled in lower courts and, thus, more appeals.

At this point the law clerks, recent graduates of law schools, come into the picture. Each justice has two (they stay a year), except Chief Justice Earl Warren, who has three, and Justice William O. Douglas, who always has one.

They are of the utmost importance in helping a justice do his research.

Justices operate independently, each in a three-room suite of offices, but studies of the court show that over the years, because the problems are the same, the nine justices operate pretty much the same in a general way.

Rely on Clerks

Since each of the 2,824 cases which reached the court this past term had to be examined individually by each justice — before he could say it did or didn't deserve consideration — the justices rely on their clerks for help.

The clerks examine each application and make a digest of it. The justices read the digests. In some cases they may be enough for a justice to make up his mind. Otherwise, he reads both the digest and the case.

When the nine meet behind closed doors on Friday they discuss each application for review and vote to accept or reject. A vote of four, less than a majority, is enough to accept. This is only part of the job.

From Monday through Thursday for two weeks each month the nine justices in open court listen to lawyers argue the cases they voted to accept. (The other two weeks are for writing opinions and doing research.)

Then in Friday conference the justices can discuss and reach a decision, although there may be variation in this, on the cases they had heard argued in the previous few days. This, however, is considered a tentative opinion.

After the decision is reached one of the majority is assigned the task of writing the court's opinion. Any of the other justices may write a concurring or dissenting opinion to explain how and why he reached his position. Only the majority decision has the effect of law.

Exchange Opinions

Then the justices exchange their opinions, particularly the majority opinion. This allows them to criticize or suggest changes. Infrequently, after this exchange a justice may change his mind.

In addition the justices give a number of lectures a year, frequently at law schools.

An old question arises: Do the law clerks ever write an opinion for a justice? This writer has found no evidence that it ever happens. But reports by law clerks in other years do show this:

Sometimes a justice asks his law clerk—especially toward the end of a term—to write an opinion or outline for an opinion. This gives a law clerk practice, at least.

The justice goes over it, discards it entirely, criticizes it, perhaps finds ideas in it, or uses it as a starting point for the opinion he writes.

To Offer Air Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon soon will propose offering hefty college scholarships in an effort to draw picked young men into advanced Army and Air Force reserve officer training programs, it was learned today.

The Defense Department plan is to grant up to $1,500 a year to young men who are chosen to enroll in advanced two-year ROTC courses and who agree to stay on active duty for at least four years after college graduation.

A pilot program would provide up to 1,000 scholarships each for the Army and Air Force ROTCs. Neither service now has any such subsidy.

Neal, 17, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Neal of Kingston, recently completed basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., participating in colorful graduation ceremonies involving more than 1,000 men. KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 3, 1963
There will be no edition of the Kingston Daily Freeman Thursday, July 4, in observance of Independence Day.

INDEPENDENCE UNFINISHED
Four score and seven years ago—plus a full century—the Declaration of Independence was signed. That was a long time ago, at least as we measure time by our individual lives.
Perhaps that is why it is so easy to think of Independence Day as merely commemorating an event that happened once and was over with, that is just another fact of history, just another date.
We tend to forget that July 4, 1776, was more than one self-contained day in history. It was the watershed from which has streamed a great, ever-broadening river of freedom into our own time.
We are wrong if we think of July 4th as marking the day when freedom was brought forth by decree and handed to posterity. Independence, even after the end of the Revolutionary War, was not a completed event. It was a continuing process, an evolution, a growth.
Freedom in America is still an unfinished business.

This involves more than the fact that in the past 187 years millions of Americans have given their lives in defending their nation against external enemies. This is, perhaps, the easiest form of patriotism. In war, the enemy is obvious, and the course of duty clear.
More difficult is it sometimes to recognize other enemies of freedom—not necessarily persons, but ideas, entrenched interests, prejudices, hallowed by tradition.
At one time, freedom in America was for the "respectable" people, those who owned enough property to qualify for the right to vote. Throughout our history, too often freedom has been abridged or denied to certain classes and minority groups because of ethnic background, religion, economic status, political beliefs.
Yet eventually these groups attained full acceptance into citizenship—not by riot or revolution but by steady evolution within the framework of the Constitution.
That is the pride and the glory of the United States—and the hope of those who are not yet as free as others.
July 4, 1963, is another marker buoy on the river of freedom. Beyond, in the future, where the current is pulling, can be seen a great vista that embraces the world.

Many newlyweds find that day-to-day living expenses use up their entire paycheck, says an article on marriage. The newlyweds have nothing on the rest of us.
A VITAL SKILL
The incident had something of the quality of a boyhood idyll. There was a boy floating in the river on an innertube. The boy's pet dog swam out and gave him a playful nudge, so that the lad fell over backward into the water.
At that point, this episode recently in the news changes from idyll to tragedy. The boy could not swim. Neither could his playmate, a few years older. By the time adult help was fetched, nothing was found but the innertube; one boyhood had abruptly come to an end.
The point to be made is not in the least complicated. It has been made so many times that to make it again may seem almost insulting to readers' intelligence. But the point needs to be made again: In our day, no one need drown for lack of the ability to swim.
There was an era when that was not so. But now the rudiments of swimming are so well known, and means of learning in classes or as individuals are so readily available in most communities, that everyone has a chance to acquire this important skill. To let a young person grow up without learning to swim borders on criminal negligence in these times.

'These Days'
By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
PLOWING THE FARMER UNDER
Partisans of the welfare legislation of the past thirty years invariably try to rule their opponents out of court as reputable witnesses by stigmatizing them as heartless, selfish and inhumane. But welfare legislation, which very often fails to produce the effect that is intended, frequently operates in practice in a way that makes life in the jungle seem cordial by contrast.
The inhumanity of our agricultural support program, for example, is demonstrated any time that a statistician looks at what has happened to millions of farmers since the creation of the first Triple A in the nineteen thirties. The excuse for the original New Deal agricultural laws was that they were needed to protect the family farm, particularly the small farm with the high mortgage. But on the farm, as elsewhere, "them as has, gits" and when the government goes into the business of subsidizing the farmer on the basis of a fair percentage of his produce, the most affluent operator "gits" the most. The New Deal, in failing to establish a top cut-off point for total parity benefit payments to an individual farmer, made it inevitable that the rich agriculturist, the one who could afford to combine the most machinery with his manpower, would really make a good thing out of state support of his effort. The poorer farmer, struggling to get a cotton crop, say, out of his forty acres and a mule, could not produce enough on his government acreage allotment to command a decent support loan. Thus he never could afford to buy a tractor and more land.
The mills of the gods have been grinding slowly since the days of the pioneer Triple A. But they have been grinding exceedingly fine. Edward Higbee, a land utilization expert from the University of Rhode Island who recently completed a study of farm trends for the Twentieth Century Fund, is positively devilish in his assembly of statistics bearing on the human erosion of the past thirty years on the farm front. In 1935, when Henry Wallace, Rexford Tugwell and other knights errant of the New Deal were galloping forth to save the farmer, there were 6.8 million farm units in the United States. In 1961 there were only 3.7 million. This means that more than three million farm families have had to quit the soil despite the billions in subsidy money lavished on American agriculture.
How could there have been so much human attrition in an era that has been dominated by the welfareist mind? Looking back on the record, it becomes obvious that nobody ever had any real desire to institute a humane program for the small farmer. Every bit of farm legislation for three decades has made it less and less profitable to use crude labor power in the fields, barns and feeding lots of the U. S. With acreage allotments limited, the farmer with the most efficient machinery and the lowest total labor costs per bushel could obviously make the most money out of the support program.
True enough, the industrial revolution in agriculture would work to eliminate the small, inefficient family farm in any event. But thirty years of offering premiums for the use of machinery, fertilizer and genetic science have speeded up the process. The small, relatively inefficient farmer has had less time than he might normally have counted on to find something more suited to his talents. He has been thrown, willy-nilly, on the city before new urban industries have had the opportunity to absorb him.
The whole cruel impact of the operation is apparent when you look at a city like Washington, D. C., which is filled with Negro refugees from the South who could not make out as farmers with only their muscles and a mule to raise a crop.
True enough, if the small farmer had had the instinct of the European peasant, he might have made out. A couple of weeks ago I drove through the Amish country of Pennsylvania, that smiling stretch of rolling land between Lancaster and Morgantown. The Amish, to judge by everything you could see, are still proving to the world that a farmer can make a living if he devotes most of his time, and hard personal labor, to feeding himself and his family out of the garden produce. The Amish still refuse to waste money on gasoline or expensive machinery. But they live like peasants—and this has never appealed to the average American farmer.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Warning: Don't Endanger Your Vision During Eclipse
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Every time there is an eclipse, many persons who watch it live to regret it. After the eclipse on September 20, 1960, despite advance warnings, 31 persons in Utah and 735 in Washington received retinal burns. Many others undoubtedly occurred but were not reported. Most of the victims were under 20 years of age.
Another eclipse is due on July 20, 1963. The moon will pass between the earth and the sun along a path through Alaska, Canada, and Maine. Over this path, it will cause total darkness for a few minutes. In areas north and south of this pathway a partial eclipse may be seen.
There is no safe way to look directly into the eclipse. Smoked glass and old photographic negatives cut out some of the rays, but enough infra-red heat rays get through to cause serious burns.
Since there are no pain fibers in the optic nerve, which ends at the retina, the burns cannot be felt. They leave retinal scars which remain throughout life as incurable blind spots.
The effect of the sun's rays passing through the lens of the eye and focusing on the retina can be demonstrated by focusing the same rays through a pocket lens on the back of your hand, which is well supplied with pain fibers.
No one is to be blamed for wanting to see an eclipse. But it is hardly worth a retinal burn. For this reason, one of the following alternatives should be used:
Watch it on television. Since the eclipse may be shown several times on newscasts, you may be able to see it more than once.
Another method is to punch a round hole 1/8-to-1/4-inch in diameter in a sheet of cardboard. With your back to the sun, hold the cardboard in such a position that the sun's rays pass through the hole and are projected onto a smooth, white surface.
This is the principle of the camera, and the image projected will be upside down. In the case of a solar eclipse, this doesn't matter.
The important thing: Don't be an "eye witness."
Q—I have had recurring attacks of neuralgia under my left shoulder blade. My doctor says there is no cure. I am becoming discouraged.
A—These severe pains can come and go without any regularity, so it is hard to tell when they will return. The treatment that is usually tried first is to inject alcohol into the nerve near the place where it joins the spinal cord.
Some drugs, such as diphenylhydantoin (obtainable only on a doctor's prescription) will shorten the attacks, but will not cure the disease. If nothing else works, it is sometimes necessary to cut the nerve. This should be avoided except as a last resort.
De Gaulle says Frenchmen will handle any problem created after he leaves office. That sounds like something the general neglected to edit out of his speech.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Your federal government begins the fiscal year 1964, as of July 1, in the usual confused financial shape.
The President has signed into law only one appropriation bill to run the government in the coming year. It's the Treasury-Post Office appropriation for $6 billion. If everything else is allowed to go to pot, it's well to keep the mails going and the bills paid.
THIS RECORD IS A NET IMPROVEMENT of one more appropriation bill passed than a year ago. House Appropriations Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon and Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Carl Hayden were then having their feud over which side of the Capitol they'd meet on to compromise their differences.
They didn't settle the issue till July, while government ran on the cuff.
In all emergencies, Senate and House pass and the President signs into law a bill giving government agencies temporary authority to go on paying the help and spending other money. That's the way it will be done this year until Congress gets around to completing action on appropriations for newly authorized programs, gosh only knows when.
In the meantime, the economists haven't been doing too well.
Early in the session Republican leaders announced they were going to cut the President's 1964 budget of $88.9 billion by 15 percent—$14.9 billion. Present indications are they won't cut it even 10 percent, and maybe not even 5 percent.
You can only have bad dreams about what that might do to the tax cut. If it has to wait for action on appropriation bills, it won't be decided till after Labor Day, and maybe after Armistice Day.

There have been some promising cuts made by the House Appropriations Committee, where money bills originate. The Pentagon's $49 billion budget was cut $1.9 billion in committee. A 15 percent cut would have been $7.3 billion. But on the House floor, only one cut of $10 million on procurement of Army radios by competitive bidding was made. This was victory after a two-year fight by Rep. Earl Wilson, R-Ind.
THE BOX SCORE on House economizing now looks like this, in comparison to what 15 percent cuts would be:
Appropriation, Budget Request, House Cut, 15% Cut:
Agriculture, $7.2 billion, $398 million, $1.1 billion;
Defense, 49, billion, 1.9 billion, 7.3 billion;
Interior, 1.0 billion, 43 million, 154 million; Legislative, 148 million, 8.5 million, 22 million;
Treasury-Post Office, 6.0 billion, 101 million, 966 million;
State, Commerce, Justice & Judiciary, 2.1 billion, 308 million, 323 million.
This last item is the closest economizers have come to making a 15 percent cut. The big money bills on which substantial savings are possible are the $5.7 billion space program, the $5.3 billion Health, Education and Welfare bill and the $4.5 billion for foreign aid.
President Kennedy has done a little juggling on his January budget requests. First he voluntarily recommended cuts in his programs amounting to $620 million. But in his civil rights message he recommended taking $400 million of this and spending it for aids to integrated education, employment security, holders were due to compete in the 12th regatta of the Kingston Power Boat Association on the Rondout Creek July 5.

Diplomatic Relations With Vatican Still Live Subject
BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON—There must be a "wall of separation" between Church and State, says the Supreme Court of the United States. In public schools supported by government money, even a brief prayer is not permitted by the court.
Now some new questions are being asked here: Did President Kennedy, wisely or unwisely, ignore the separation doctrine when he presented, as a gift to Pope Paul VI, a gift desk box on the lid of which are engraved not only the papal seal, but the seal of the President of the United States, which is usually reserved for imprint on official communications? Was this symbolic, rather than indicative, of a formal relationship such as might occur naturally between heads of state?
Diplomatic niceties were brushed aside also when the Pope himself, in the presence of the President on Tuesday, made an address in which he said in part:
"We are ever mindful in our prayers of the efforts to insure to all your citizens the equal benefits of citizenship which have as their foundation the equality of all men because of their dignity as persons and children of God."
This comment on what some might call a problem of "internal politics"—the racial controversy in the U. S.—illustrates the tendency nowadays to ignore the rigid lines of formality with respect to matters within a country which are deemed to have a distinctly moral aspect when viewed from the outside. This has always been the traditional Vatican attitude, though lately, out of a kind of new deference perhaps to the power of the Soviet Union in the world, there has been less outright condemnation of communism and of the persecution of Christians that was so unequivocally expressed in previous years.
Other Visits Recalled
Two other Presidents besides Mr. Kennedy have visited the Vatican. President Wilson in January, 1919, had a private audience with Pope Benedict XV, who then received the members of the Presidential party and newspapermen, in which latter group this correspondent happened to be. The visit was important at the time because President Wilson was anxious to mobilize world opinion behind the League of Nations and realized the support of the Vatican meant much in Latin America and in other countries where the Catholic religion was embraced by a majority of the people.
It was in December, 1959, that President Eisenhower, in the course of a world-wide tour—also in behalf of the cause of peace—had a half-hour visit with Pope John XXIII at the Vatican. It started speculation at the time as to whether the call was a possible forerunner of diplomatic recognition of the papal regime by the U. S. But the elaborate trappings of a state visit were omitted, and the Pope's impression, Pope John requested, however, that the "Star-Spangled Banner" be played and that special marks of respect be given. The discussion centered on efforts to relax world tension and advance the cause of peace.
President Kennedy's conference with Pope Paul this week comes at a critical time in world affairs when the moral forces of mankind are being mobilized to help influence the Russian people to develop a government which will join the free nations in removing the fear of nuclear war.
Mr. Kennedy happens to be the first Roman Catholic to be elected President of the U. S., and it is doubtful whether he would wish to revive the question of the Vatican by the American government because of the impact of such a proposal on domestic politics. It is perhaps not generally realized that the U. S. had consular representatives at the Vatican from 1797 to 1848, while papal consular officials served uninterruptedly in the U. S. from 1826 to 1895. Regular diplomatic relations were initiated in 1848, with the establishment of an American legation at the Vatican. This mission continued until 1867, when Congress refused to appropriate further funds.
Since 1892 the Vatican has been represented in Washington by an apostolic delegation in a large and handsome residence. But the delegation has never been accorded diplomatic status by the American government.

A Precedent Seen
President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939 sent the late Myron C. Taylor to the Vatican as his personal representative during World War II. Mr. Taylor continued in the same capacity under the Truman administration until 1950. President Truman in 1951 submitted to the Senate the name of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be American ambassador to the Vatican. It was a formal move to establish full diplomatic relations. Strong opposition to the idea developed, and Gen. Clark requested that his name be withdrawn from nomination. No other nominee was submitted for approval by the Senate, and the whole plan was dropped.
So there is at least a precedent for proposing diplomatic relations with the Vatican. Talk of it often arises largely because of the desire to achieve a liaison status with a most influential instrumentality in the world of diplomacy. Whether this will ever come about while a Roman Catholic is President of the U. S. or whether it will be achieved some time when a Protestant is President is one of the questions which is the subject of considerable speculation among political observers. It is given renewed attention whenever a President and a Pope engage in private conference at Rome.

Cornell Crew Enters Final Training Phase

HENLEY, England (AP)—Coach R. Harrison (Stork) Sanford met a little local difficulty with bicycles but moved his heavy-weight Cornell University rowing crew into the final phase of training for the Henley Royal Regatta.

The U.S. national champions had a one hour tune-up session over the upper reaches of the River Thames Monday. Sanford followed in a launch. Then the oarsmen moved their boat — "Windjammer" — on to the one mile, 550 yard Henley course. All Cornell's final training spins will be over the course where accompanying launches are barred.

Sanford quit his launch and started hunting up a bicycle to pedal beside his crew down the towpath.

"That's where the trouble started," Sanford said. "All available bicycles seem to have been hired out and we can't lay our hands on one. Our only hope is if another American crew will lend us one."

As the 6-foot-5 coach explained, there were other problems as well.

"I'm just too tall for any bicycle I ever met," he said. "When I'm riding one of those things, that's all I do. It takes me all my time to stay out of the river."

In their first time trial over the course last week, Cornell returned 6:51.

The Cornell heavyweights open their campaign Thursday against Germany's Nassovia Hoechst Boat Club in the first round of the Grand Challenge Cup.

Cornell's lightweight crew has its first race Wednesday against an Irish squad from Queen's College, Belfast, in the Thames Cup.

Two other U.S. eights — Tabor Academy from Massachusetts and Rollins College from Florida — also have been working out. Both are entered in the Thames Cup.

Rabbi Outlines Birmingham Trip To NAACP Here

The atmosphere at Birmingham, Ala., at the time of the integration strife there was outlined Sunday night to a memorial meeting of Kingston Branch NAACP at Franklin Street AME Zion Church.

Rabbi Isaac Freeman of Congregation Agudas Achim, Newburgh was the principal speaker at the mass meeting held as a memorial to Medgar Evers, southern integration leader who was shot during the height of the turmoil at Birmingham.

Rabbi Freeman spoke of the decision of 19 conservative rabbis to visit Birmingham during the troubled period.

He said the 19 represented 750 rabbis and 1½ million Jews. The rabbi said the decision was not easy. They feared attendance by the rabbis might jeopardize the Jewish residents of Birmingham.

After careful consideration, he said they came to the conclusion that they owe responsibility to the Jews of Birmingham and elsewhere.

Rabbi Freeman said, "We went to Birmingham, but before we did, we communicated with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference leaders, because we did not want to come and give the impression that we knew what was right and that we were wise and able to solve everyone's problems. Our role was to help. We offered our services to those who wanted to listen."

"The first man we met was a young Mennonite, who gave us insight into the issue and into the religious approach that was being used."

"We spoke in the churches of Birmingham and it was a great experience for us. In one church we spoke to 5,000 persons."

He admonished those attending not to go forth from the meeting as people who hate, but as people who hate evil and are determined to correct it.

The rabbi indicated that if that attitude prevailed, it would be a fitting memory to Medgar Evers.

IUE Going in Merger

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette says District 6 of the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, is being disbanded through mergers.

In today's edition, the paper said it learned the IUE's general executive board made the decision at a meeting last week in Denver. The district has 25 locals in Western Pennsylvania and four in West Virginia.

The paper said International President James Carey is seeking the merger to consolidate his position in the 280,000 member union.

District 6 has been giving him opposition, the Post-Gazette said. According to the paper, the Pennsylvania locals will be merged with IUE District 1 with headquarters in Philadelphia and the West Virginia locals will become part of District 7, headquartered in Cleveland.

POTENTIAL NATIONAL PARTY MEMBERS IN A PEKING CENTERED COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL

A NEW RED WORLD? Newsmap locates nations in which Communist parties might be openly or quietly sympathetic to a realigned Communist International with a Peking axis.

K Has Plenty to Worry About As World Communists Line Up

By Leon Dennen
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, New York — (NEA) — Even the feat of Russia's space-woman cannot obscure Nikita Khrushchev's troubles as he gears for the July meeting with the Red Chinese.

The Soviet Premier is still in control of the Kremlin and fighting doggedly to stay at the helm. But according to East European representatives at the U.N., he is facing a mounting array of problems which is playing into the hands of his bitter enemy, Mao Tse-tung. They see his efforts to muzzle Russia's restive writers and artists as only a symptom of a bigger political crisis in Moscow.

New Red International
The violence of Red China's latest propaganda campaign against Khrushchev is seen as further proof that Mao no longer believes in a reconciliation with the Soviet premier. In the view of the East European diplomats, the Chinese leader is actually laying the foundation of a new Red International with headquarters in Peking.

The Chinese do not expect that any agreement will be reached at their July meeting with the Russians. They are playing for the support of revolutionary-minded Communists everywhere against the Khrushchev leadership.

Albania's newspaper, Zeri i Popullit, which is frequently used by Mao as a sounding board, even hinted in a recent editorial that the Soviet premier must step down before there can be peaceful coexistence in the Red world.

Peking's chief envoy to the Moscow conference. Ten Hsiapin is a tough veteran of the Chinese-Soviet dispute over the "correct" interpretation of Marxist-Leninist doctrine. He made it clear in conversations with diplomats from behind the Iron Curtain that his aim is to convince "right-minded comrades" that Khrushchev is as dangerous a "revisionist" as Yugoslav President Tito.

Right-minded Comrades

Who are the right-minded comrades whom the Chinese hope to convince that the Soviet premier has betrayed the Marxist-Leninist cause? They are to be found, in the first place, among the top Reds of Asia, Africa and Latin America who are increasingly backing China against Russia.

In preparation for the Moscow meeting, Chinese propaganda now paints Russia as a white nation which, like imperialist America, has little sympathy for the colored people. Peking's propagandists claim that China shares with the undeveloped nations not only a common hatred of colonialism but also a common predicament of color.

Even Russia's East European satellites are restive. They are increasingly irked by Moscow's attempt to muzzle their economic, political and cultural life.

Romania, generally regarded as one of Russia's most servile satellites, is a typical example. The Romanians just signed an agreement with Red China that calls for an increase of 10 per cent in their volume of trade. Mao's press has given prominence to hints in the Romanian press of differences with Moscow on economic planning.

Resentment in Poland
Russia's efforts to control the satellites' economies have also caused resentment in Poland, a country with vast agricultural surpluses. Poland's survival depends on trade with the West and the European Common Market.

However, it is the influence of the mighty Soviet military machine which, in the view of the East European diplomats, is behind Premier Khrushchev's twists of "softness" and toughness toward the West.

For the first time since Stalin died, the Red Army — once merely an arm of the Communist Party — is emerging as an independent political force.

More than 10 per cent of the Communist party's powerful Central Committee now consists of senior army officers. The recent appointment of Gen. Dimitry Ustinov, a leading light of Russia's military establishment, as chairman of the Supreme Economic Council further underlines the growing role of the armed forces in Soviet affairs. The general, 55, was also given the high political post of first deputy premier, which he shares with such luminaries as Anastas Mikoyan and Alexei Kosygin.

These are obviously the "right-minded comrades" whose backing Mao Tse-tung seeks in his effort to overthrow Premier Khrushchev.

Biggest July 4 Celebration Ever Held Slated Here

The biggest July 4 celebration in the history of Saugerties is being planned by Saugerties Jaycees. The observance starts 9 o'clock tonight with a block dance at Simmons Plaza, Route 9W, Barclay Heights, and ends Thursday night with the largest fireworks display ever attempted in the village.

Starting things off at 10 a. m. Thursday, will be a huge colorful parade boasting over 100 different units. The parade to Cantine's Field will bring spectators to the scene of many concession stands with plenty of refreshments and several exciting events.

At 1 p. m. at Cantine Field is scheduled a most unusual aerial act billed as "The Aerial Sensation, Leigh" performing on one of the strangest devices ever created by man. Following this at 2 p. m. will be Mrs. Carol Duffy with a dog show competition with trophies, prizes, and an interesting exhibition by Ulster County Dog Training Club.

The firemen have planned an action-packed demonstration of modern fire fighting techniques to get underway at 3 p. m.

At 4:30 p. m., the Saugerties Dutchmen and Oak Hill are scheduled to battle it out on the ball field.

At 5:30 p. m., the watermelon eating contest will be held.

The Blue Grass Outcups will be on hand at 6:30 p. m. to entertain with some excellent country style music that this group is so well known in this area for.

At 9:15 p. m. sharp, Cantine's Field will be the scene of the largest fireworks display ever scheduled in the Hudson Valley with over 6000 explosions.

Lutheran Church Activities Listed

Coming activities at Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street, Saugerties, were announced this week by the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor.

The Rev. Norman Krapf, of Christ Lutheran Church, Woodstock; the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties; and the Rev. John Frensen of Trinity Church, Kingston, will compose the planning committee for the Hudson District Meeting to be held September 24. They will meet on Wednesday, July 10 at 10 a. m. at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Frensen, 163 West Chestnut Street, Kingston. The group will develop the program for the fall meeting of the district.

Wilbur G. Cowen, of Mt. Vernon, nephew of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cowen, will occupy the pulpit at Atonement Church July 21 and 28 at the 9 a. m. summer schedule service. He is a senior at Philadelphia Lutheran Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa. Beginning in September he will take in-training with a seasoned pastor in the Philadelphia area and return to the seminary in the fall of 1964 to complete his studies.

August 4 and 11 the pulpit will be occupied by the Rev. Hugh Whitaker, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Oswego, a native of Saugerties and the only son of the congregation to enter full time ministry of the church. He will be available for emergency needs August 1 to 15. Emergency needs from July 15 to August 1st will be covered by the Rev. Norman Krapf, and the Rev. Russell Green.

Brian Legg, Main Street, Saugerties, was approved by the New York Synod Committee on men for the ministry and certified. He was graduated in June from Saugerties High School and will begin his college preparation in the fall.

Junior Annapolis Camp Now Open At Turkey Point

Camp Junior Annapolis at Turkey Point held a ceremony Sunday celebrating the official opening of the summer camp for young boy and girl cadets.

The cadets paraded around the grounds military style in dress uniforms with the band playing. Admiral Richard Lukeman gave the official opening address. Colors were raised under salute of rifle fire.

The entire ceremony was not completed due to the excessive heat of Tuesday.

The camp is sponsored by the John Paul Jones Training Academy of New York City. It is a nonprofit organization providing excellent training for boys and girls between the ages of 7 to 17. The children are taught swimming, boating, signaling, and target practice, as well as discipline.

runway. The airport is several miles southwest of Rochester.

One wingtip apparently struck the ground, a witness said. The plane bounced, broke in two like a matchstick and caught fire. Airport firemen extinguished the flames.

The dead included the pilot, Capt. Richard M. Dennis, 39, Fairview, N.J.; First Officer John W. Neff, 33, Wilmington, Del., and Roy E. Drew, Pelham, N.Y., controller of Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

Others killed were Jerrold Kurtz of Harrison, N.Y.; Thomas Callinan of Yorktown Heights, N.Y.; Morris Falk, Cos Cob Conn., and Lee O'Dell, Westport, Conn.

Richard Baldwin, 26, Danbury, Conn., said the plane hit turbulence when "we got up 10 feet. It was like flying into the dead of night."

Pushed Around by Draft

"Wind draft pushed us around," observed Robert Christopher, 28, of Stratford, Conn. "The pilot was fighting the stick all the way." Thomas Mayer, 55, Westport, Conn., said the plane had climbed to an altitude of 75 or 100 feet when "it happened in 20 seconds."

"I was thrown clear of the plane and landed in mud up to my elbows," said John L. O'Brien, White Plains, reported in fair condition with a skull fracture, cuts and bruises.

Ex-Marine Joseph Pearson of Tonawanda, N.Y., a worker on a construction project, helped pull survivors from the plane.

"One man was walking around with his ear torn and bleeding," Pearson said. "He asked for help but I said there's no time. We've gotta get those people who are still in there."

FBI Denies

Egorov is a personnel officer in the U.N. secretariat.

Woman Carried Off

The FBI said the couple resisted arrest and the woman "put up a terrific struggle" and had to be carried away by agents.

The pair seized in a Washington apartment denied their guilt at a hearing.

While the FBI called them "John and Jane Doe" in its complaint, it said they were living under the names of Robert Keistutis Balch and Joy Ann Garber, or Joy Ann Balch. The names were taken, the FBI said, from innocent citizens—a Roman Catholic priest and a Connecticut housewife.

The FBI would not discuss the background of the Balch couple—even to say whether they, too, might be Russian.

Two Others Named

Also named but not charged in the complaint are Russian U.N. employees Aleksei Galkin, 45, and Petr Egorovich Maslennikov, 43, both of whom left for Russia in May.

These and other members of Soviet military intelligence, the FBI said, conspired with the two couples "to communicate, deliver and transmit to Russia information relating to United States military and Navy installations, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities."

free moratorium of indefinite length on underground shots. This has been refused by the West, which contends that on-the-spot inspections are needed to safeguard against sneak explosions below ground.

2. Did Khrushchev put his test ban and nonaggression pact offers in one inseparable package?

The Soviet leader said that for the sake of easing international tensions "it is also necessary to take another major step" in addition to a test ban agreement: the signing of "a nonaggression pact between the two main military blocs—the NATO countries and the Warsaw Pact states."

Not Real Clear

Washington analysts said this language did not make it clear whether Khrushchev was saying the two issues must be settled together.

3. What conditions did Khrushchev have in mind for the nonaggression pact, particularly in relation to Communist East Germany?

Particularly objectionable to the West in the past have been Moscow conditions for a nonaggression pact which would enhance the status of East Germany.

There is some hope in official quarters that the Kremlin has come to such a point in its military situation and in its dispute with Red China that it wants to start reaching some form of accommodation with the West.

Pilot Astounded Plane Took Off In Such Weather

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "I couldn't believe someone was taking off in that weather," said a flier who witnessed Tuesday's fatal crash of a Mohawk airliner. Seven persons were killed and 36 injured.

Frank Rossney, a part-time pilot for General Aviation Co., was standing at the edge of the Rochester-Monroe County Airport and, just before the plane took off, had commented that the wind had risen terrifically. After the plane left the ground, Rossney told a reporter, he noticed that it was "tilted at an odd angle of about 45 or 50 degrees, kind of nose up." "He looked like he was going into a stall, which, at that altitude, is almost always fatal. He was less than 100 feet off the ground."

Fought 100 Years Ago Today

Horror and Carnage Spread Around Town at Gettysburg

EDITOR'S NOTE—The decisive Battle of Gettysburg, fought 100 years ago, spread horror and carnage around the little Pennsylvania town and ended with a once-proud Confederate army in retreat, its hopes of penetrating the North in force forever smashed. Here is the way a correspondent at the scene might have reported the climactic battle.

By TOM HENSHAW

GETTYSBURG (AP) — The Union army won a smashing defensive victory today over the Confederate forces of Gen. Robert E. Lee, turning back his invasion of the North.

The climax of the great three-day battle at Gettysburg came at 3 p.m. this hot, humid afternoon when 15,000 Confederates under Gen. George E. Pickett assaulted the center of the Federal line.

Had Heavy Losses

They were hurled back with heavy losses after Brig. Gen. Lewis A. Armistead, 46, of Virginia, and 150 men momentarily penetrated the defenses on Cemetery Ridge. Armistead was killed.

Brig. Gen. John D. Imboden late tonight quoted Gen. Lee as saying: "We must return to Virginia."

Losses in killed, wounded and missing during the three-day battle were estimated at 23,049 for the Union Army of the Potomac and 28,063 for the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia.

The assault by Pickett's division and those of Brig. Gen. Johnston Pettigrew and Maj. Gen. Isaac R. Trimble was launched after one of the greatest artillery barrages ever seen on the North American continent.

About 3 p.m., the artillery fell silent and the men of Pickett, Trimble and Pettigrew began their long march across the valley between Seminary and Cemetery Ridges.

Ocean of Men

"Every eye could see (the) legions," reported Lt. Frank A. Haskell of the 2nd Corps, "an overwhelming resistless tide of an ocean of armed men sweeping upon us."

"Regiment after regiment and brigade after brigade moved from the woods and rapidly took their places in the lines forming the assault... magnificent, grim, irresistible."

The Federal cannon opened fire.

Confederate Capt. H. T. Owen described the scene like this: "Round shot, bounding along the plain, tore through their ranks and ricocheted around them; shells exploded incessantly in blinding, dazzling flashes before them, behind them, overhead and among them."

Column Swept On

"Frightful gaps were made from center to flank, yet on swept the column, and as it advanced the men steadily closed up the wide rents made along the line in a hundred places at every discharge of the murderous batteries in front."

Gen. Armistead and his gallant 150 reached the Federal defensive wall and clashed hand-to-hand with the Philadelphia Brigade led by Brig. Gen. Alexander Webb, 28.

Armistead died with his hand on a Union cannon; his 150 men were quickly killed or captured; the great Confederate charge rolled back down the ridge and fled across the valley to safety.

Confederate Brig. Gen. Richard B. Garnett also was killed. Brig. Gen. James L. Kemper was wounded and captured, wiping out all Pickett's brigade commanders. Division leaders Pettigrew and Trimble were wounded.

Commanders Wounded

On the Union side, Corps commander Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock and division commander, Brig. Gen. John Gibbon, were wounded. Gibbon's division of Hancock's corps bore the brunt of the assault.

It's raining tonight as Gettysburg as Lee prepares to begin the long, sad march south with his beaten army, a wagon train of wounded 17 miles long, down muddy roads and across swollen streams.

It is believed that Maj. Gen. George G. Meade will make no effort at pursuit. His cavalry commander, Maj. Gen. Alfred Pleasanton, told him tonight:

"I will give you half an hour to show yourself a great general. Order the army to advance, while I take the cavalry and get in Lee's rear, and we will finish the campaign in a week."

"How do you know Lee will not attack me again?" asked Meade, and he added: "We have done well enough."

Senate Favors Pa. School Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)—The compulsory school reorganization bill will be put before the House Education Committee for a vote next Tuesday, Chairman Edwin D. Eshleman said today.

Eshleman told The Associated Press he plans to present the bill in the form it passed the Senate Tuesday.

The upper Chamber approved the measure on a straight party vote, 27-23.

Republicans held firm against hours of Democratic attacks, including three amendments aimed at strengthening the amendment-riddled measure that bears a tattered administration banner.

On the main Democratic amendment, Republican Sen. Jack E. McGregor of Allegheny broke ranks to support it, but otherwise the GOP majority solidly opposed the minority's assaults.

One amendment would have ripped out an exemption inserted by the Senate Education Committee for districts drawn in compliance with standards of a 1963 voluntary reorganization act.

That exemption, and another one inserted by the GOP senators Monday for districts adjudged capable of offering a comprehensive educational program, virtually stifled the original plan of the administration and all but nullified the program adopted in 1961.

"The bill isn't the way I would like to see it," Eshleman commented, "but I can live with it."

"Rather than fool around with it and possibly lose it altogether, I expect to present the bill to the committee next Tuesday morning as it was approved by the Senate."

The House convened alone today. The Senate, after disposing of the long-pending reorganization issue has adjourned until Monday.

Will Reenact Battle Climax At Gettysburgh

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Men in blue and gray prepared today for a dramatization of the decisive climax of the battle of Gettysburg, fought here 100 years ago.

Gen. George Pickett's charge—a brave but futile effort by 15,000 Confederates to cross a mile of valley and drive the federals off Cemetery Ridge—was launched at 3 p.m. July 3, 1863.

When the attack failed in an inferno of gunfire and hand-to-hand fighting, the greatest battle of the war was decided and, it turned out, the doom of the Confederacy was sealed.

At 3 p. m. AEST today, 500 men in gray with Stars and Bars flying were to cross the fateful field again. At the Bloody Angle of the stone wall, near the same copse of trees where the Confederate advance was stopped, 500 men in blue waited with their own traditional flags.

But this time there was to be no struggle—not even the firing of a blank cartridge. The din of battle was to be simulated by an elaborate stereophonic system for the benefit of the audience gathered on Cemetery Ridge, where the Union troops under Gen. George Gordon Meade took their stand.

Meeting on the ridge, the 1,000 men were to join in brotherhood and pledge devotion to the Stars and Stripes as a symbol of unity. The dramatization was the grand finale of a commemoration of the three-day battle. Tuesday an estimated 35,000 people lined the streets to witness a two-hour long pageant-parade.

There were only 13 casualties—a dozen heat prostrations and one hornet sting.

Million Is Wasted By Air Force, Says Accountants

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than $1 million has been wasted since 1959 by the Air Force on petroleum storage facilities at the Plattsburgh Air Force Base, the General Accounting office says.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell said Tuesday in a report to Congress that the Defense Petroleum Supply Center should review its procedures in an attempt to cut waste.

The old Military Petroleum Supply Agency, now the Defense Petroleum Center, awarded in 1958 the contract for construction of the Plattsburgh storage facilities on the basis of Air Force requirements. The contract was for one year and had 10 one-year renewal options.

Campbell said the low bid for the project was $7,419,000 for the entire 11-year period, including $2,239,000 for the first year.

He said the contract was aimed at enabling the contractor to recover the construction cost of the facility over a period of four years.

However, Campbell said, the Air Force insisted the first year's price cover the construction cost—a requirement which increased the first year charge to $6.1 million.

Campbell said the requirement also reduced the annual charges for the following years, but not enough to offset the increased cost of the first year.

He said the contractor's original bid for the first four years was $5,655,000 compared with the revised schedule of $6,766,000 because of the Air Force directive.

Babcock's Dairy Opening at Site In Ulster Town

Opening of a coffee, doughnut and ice cream bar on Albany Avenue Extension late this week or by next Monday was announced Tuesday by George J. Silkworth, president of Babcock's Dairy, Inc., of 197 Hurley Avenue.

The coffee and doughnut bar will carry a complete variety of doughnuts and will be managed by Maurice LeBoeuf, who is associated with Silkworth in the business which will be operated by Babcock Food Shops. The ice cream bar will be conducted on the same line as the present ice cream bar operated by Babcock's Dairy on Hurley Avenue.

Opening of the Albany Avenue coffee, doughnut and ice cream bar is dependent upon completion of the paving of the parking area, Silkworth said. Plans for opening by the end of this week were being made with a target date of not later than next Monday.

The New Babcock Food Shop

is located adjoining the Town of Ulster branch of the State of New York Bank, between Vincent and Guyton Streets, Albany Avenue Extension. A former house which was on the premises was razed to make room for the new business.

Convent Students Honor Firemen at Special Exhibit

The students of St. Anne's Convent have made a quilt entitled "A Day in the Life of a Fireman" as part of an exhibit in honor of the Kingston Firemen to be shown in the window of the Artcraft Camera Center 694 Broadway, through July 4.

On a very cold night in December nine years ago, as the girls were rehearsing for their Christmas play, a fire of considerable proportions broke out in the students' building on the Convent grounds. An invalid Sister, whose room overlooked the students' house, raised the alarm. She expressed her feelings afterwards in a poem.

"Against the moon's fading light
What a sight met my eyes!
Flames shooting in air—
How did they get there?
Were the Angels asleep?"

The fire department responded immediately. Three companies and six auxiliaries using over 3,000 feet of hose quickly and efficiently got the situation in hand. The quilt is a reproduction of this scene. The sounding of the alarm, the race of the fire trucks through the streets, the hasty attaching of the hoses, the ladders flung against the walls, the water poured down through holes chopped in the roof with fire axes, all are faithfully reproduced in the quilt by tiny pieces of colored cloth applied on a blue ground.

The last block departs from the actual occurrence by showing a fireman on a ladder rescuing a tan Cocker Spaniel. The Sisters did indeed have just such a dog at the time, but he merely viewed the proceedings from the safety of the Convent. It was Peter, the old black cat, that lived in the students' building and escaped the flames.

The other exhibits include the poem commemorating the occasion by the Sister who raised the alarm; a picture of the first fire engine to be used in the United States, brought from England in 1748 by the Moravians of Bethlehem, Pa., and still to be seen there; a newspaper account of the career of Hamilton S. White, of Syracuse, who introduced many innovations in fire-fighting technique; and a paper of appreciation of the Kingston Fire Department written by Nancy K. Edwards, a student at St. Anne's.

"If no one volunteered to be a fireman", her paper reads "Some of us would be dead right now. So stop and think what you would do without them. Pray to God that you have them."

"The Mayor of Kingston must be honored to have these men work for the city."

The girls have invited all members of the Fire Department to submit the names of their children, 10 years of age and under. At the county fair in August, a Fireman will draw a name from this list. The quilt will be given to the child bearing it.

Garbage Contracts Awarded for City

Philip Gerlach, Byron Gerlach and Joseph Darwak were awarded the bids for the collection of garbage in the city, with bids of $30,000 for three years, each.

The Board of Public Works authorized the awards after bids were opened Monday afternoon in the office of Mayor John J. Schwenk.

Mayor Schwenk said Byron Gerlach submitted the lone bid for Route 2, central part of the city, and Darwak submitted the lone bid for Route 3, uptown section.

William DeCicco submitted a bid of $32,789 for three years, or the alternative of $11,000 for one year, for Route 1, the downtown section.

DeCicco previously held the garbage collection contract on all three routes over a three-year period. However, the firm defaulted in its service last year, and the Darwak and Gerlach firms took over the central and uptown routes while DeCicco was permitted to continue collecting the downtown route until this July 31.

There were no other bidders on the central and uptown routes. The contracts are effective Aug. 1.

Y Secretary Schaefer invites families from the Catskill area to visit the YMCA Camp site and use the facilities for picnic and recreation weekends. Just contact the YMCA or phone them for necessary information.

Meeting July 11 On Mary's Ave. Sidewalks, Curbs

Mayor John J. Schwenk said today that a meeting will be held next week to present a plan for construction of curbs and sidewalks on Mary's Avenue.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday, July 11, in the Common Council chambers.

Mayor Schwenk said representatives of the city will outline a proposal and give property-owners involved an opportunity to express their views. The plan calls for construction of curbs and sidewalks along the entire length of Mary's Avenue where they don't exist at present.

The mayor said he would attend the meeting along with Superintendent Charles Cole and other members of the Board of Public Works; City Engineer Thomas Wickman and Corporation Counsel Harry Gold.

Letters have been sent out by Schwenk's office inviting property-owners involved to attend.

In a previous announcement, the meeting was scheduled to be held in the City Court room. The meeting place was changed to the council chambers also in City Hall, because of another function in the court room.

Albany Word Due On Successor to Rigby on Board

Appointment of a trustee for the Ulster County Community College to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of Harry Rigby Jr., is expected to be announced by Gov. Rockefeller this week.

The board of supervisors recently declined to endorse the re-appointment of Rigby on the grounds representation in southern Ulster should be considered. A Democratic-sponsored resolution seeking to have the board recommend re-appointment of Rigby was defeated by the majority party vote.

Among the names being mentioned as possible appointments by the governor is that of Joseph Alfano of Marlboro. Alfano is executive vice president and director of the First National Bank of Highland. His appointment would satisfy the desire of residents of Southern Ulster representation on the board of trustees. Alfano is active in civic matters in southern Ulster. Recently Reginald Every of Mt. Tremper, a former Town of Shandaken supervisor, was named to the college board after representation from the northern portion of the county was sought.

Beckwith Faces State Judge on Evers Indictment

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Byron de La Beckwith goes before a state judge today for arraignment on murder charges in the sniper slaying of Negro civil rights leader Medgar E. Evers.

A Hinds County grand jury — composed of 17 white men and one Negro — returned the indictment Tuesday, Beckwith, 42, who was wounded with the Marine Corps at Tarawa during World War II, is being held without bond.

Dist. Atty. Bill Waller of Jackson has said he would ask the death penalty against Beckwith who was arrested June 22 by FBI agents in his hometown of Greenwood.

Florida Man Is Facing 2 Charges For Tuesday Ride

An employee of The North Forty Corporation, Alligerville, was sent to Kingston Tuesday with a 1959 Chevrolet station wagon to procure supplies for Mary Hecht, who operates the Alligerville corporation which is engaged in the automobile business. Later in the day the Chevrolet station wagon was found on Lucas Avenue Extension where a 1959 Cadillac convertible was reported missing.

An alert deputy sheriff who was cruising over North Front Street some 20 minutes after the Cadillac car had been reported missing, observed the car in a North Front Street gas station and with the aid of a Kingston police officer located the driver of the car in a nearby grill. Two charges resulted, one of public intoxication and one of grand larceny.

Lowell Cummings, who came north from Florida a few weeks ago, left Alligerville for Kingston. Later Henry Harjes reported a 1959 Cadillac car was missing from the Economy Market on Lucas Avenue Extension. In place was a 1959 Chevrolet station wagon.

Sheriff Bell's staff was notified of the missing car and County Investigator Thomas J. Mayone sent out an alarm. Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Newkirk was cruising on North Front Street about 20 minutes later when he saw the missing Cadillac parked in the Henry Harjes gas station. Werber said the operator had asked to park it there while he went to a nearby grill for a drink.

Enlisting the services of Patrolman Leon Fitzgerald, Deputy Newkirk and Patrolman Fitzgerald went to the indicated grill where they found Cummings.

A charge of public intoxication was lodged against Cummings and also a first degree grand larceny charge for the taking of the Cadillac car. Cummings will appear before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie of Town of Esopus later to answer to the larceny warrant, after his appearance before the City Judge on the public intoxication charge.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rally in moderate trading early today.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to a point. Pan American World Airways and National Air Lines each advanced more than a point following news that they will exchange the capital stock of each held by the other. For a while there seemed a chance that National would unload its Pan Am stock on the market.

IBM and Xerox advanced about 3 each, Polaroid about 2.

Act on UR

project at its downtown urban renewal area pursuant to approval already given by the Common Council in a resolution dated May 23, 1963.

"There is a legal requirement that prior to execution of the annual contributions contract, the local authority shall notify the governing body of the locality, of its estimate of the annual amount of payments in lieu of taxes, which will be made for the project, and of the amount of taxes, which would be levied, if the property were privately owned."

"We wish to advise you that our estimate of the annual amount of payments in lieu of taxes is $6,480, and of the annual amount of taxes, which would be levied, were the property privately owned, is $42,000. Presently this property brings in approximately $7,272.93 in taxes. The amount to be received in lieu of taxes, it was noted, differs not too drastically from that now received in taxes."

A statement and petition bearing 38 signatures were filed by Emilio A. Primo, of 34 Hanratty Street, complaining of conditions, which, he said were imposed on a neighborhood by the keeping of horses on a Hanratty Street property. He was granted permission of the floor to read the statement, before it was filed. It said:

Opposes Keeping Horses

"As a resident of Hanratty Street in the Fourth Ward, City of Kingston, I am appearing before your honorable body to seek relief from a most unpleasant condition, which exists in our ward. I came here upon advice of both our present and past city judges, and ask you gentlemen to help clear the horses out of the property at 36-38 Hanratty Street. The unsanitary, foul smelling conditions, which exist at this address, make a mockery of the laws, which are supposed to protect the comfort and living conditions of our hard working taxpayers."

"I have a petition with me on which there are 38 signatures asking for your help. Some of them are signed Mr. and Mrs. so that this petition actually represents closer to 60 people. With this large percentage of voters realizing and sharing such a bad condition, I was more than surprised when our supervisor, Joseph Turck, refused to sign his name against this outrage. It would seem that there is no political advantage to this plea for other people, but all we want is protection under the law and I submit to you gentlemen, this petition and ask for protection under Section 1530 of the Penal Law."

Primo told a reporter that two horses were kept on the property in a poorly constructed shelter.

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, commenting on the test of alternate-side parking on Hoffman Street, noted that the street involved access and egress to factories, schools, the Municipal Auditorium and other public buildings, and therefore would be a significant test of the alternate-side parking plan for the city.

The plan calls for parking on the side of the street with even numbers on even calendar days. The one-side parking will be in effect from 9 p. m. to 9 p. m. for the two days involved on each side.

It will be used on other streets, if found effective, he said.

Against Tampering

In submitting the ordinance dealing with a ban on the random or unauthorized closing of sprinkler systems, Corporation Harry Gold, explained by letter, that at the request of Fire Chief James M. Breit, he submitted the ordinance "making it illegal for any person to shut off or tamper with the water supply to a sprinkler system used for fire protection." Apparently, he noted, the chief has discovered that such shut-offs have occurred, resulting in the uselessness of a system.

The ordinance provides for a penalty not to exceed a fine of $50 for a violation, or a jail sentence of not more than 10 days, or both.

A main provision of the ordinance is that no sprinkler is to be turned off without first consulting the fire chief, or a deputy chief, and without gaining permission.

Wealthy Working Widow Seeks Tax-Exempt Bonds

Q "I am 60 years old, a widower, own my own business, and don't intend to retire until I wear out. I have over $100,000 in banks. With some $200,000 in stocks and substantial real estate holdings, my income bracket is high and I don't want to push it higher. I am thinking of municipals. Can you give me any suggestions?"

A "I am only too glad to do so, since there is nothing I enjoy more than the work which I do in this medium."

I infer that your income bracket must be at least in the 50 per cent and where a 3 per cent municipal yield is equivalent to 6 per cent from a taxable source.

I suggest that you buy equal amounts of State of Tennessee 3's of 1983 at 100 (when issued), Massachusetts 2.80's of 1983 on a 3 per cent basis, City of New York 3's of 1980 at 100, and Cincinnati, Ohio, School District 1 1/2's of 1967 on a 2.10 basis.

Q "My husband had a sudden heart attack from which he is now recovering. He is a wonderful man, a steady worker and good provider; but I must now think about our future. We have 35 American Telephone, 50 Republic Steel, 20 General Electric, ample insurance, and $14,000 in savings. What changes would you suggest to increase our capital, in the event of early retirement?"

A "I am extremely sorry to hear of your husband's illness, but it is pleasant indeed to hear you speak so warmly of him. Your objective, I think, should be to increase your capital by keeping it invested in shares which over a period can appreciate in price through continued earnings gain."

I would hold Telephone and General Electric but sell Republic Steel, which has limited appeal.

I would put half my savings into Avon Products and Bristol-Myers, two strong consumer stocks.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Wellsville in Allegany County, Camden, Oneida County, and Altona, Sciota and Moores in Clinton County were among several communities blacked out because of power failures.

Boat Overturns

The rough weather created a heavy chop on Lake George, where two men were drowned when a boat carrying four vacationers overturned.

Warren County Sheriff Robert Lilly said the victims were Sidney Cohen, 51 and Joseph Felner, 46 of New York City.

The other two members of the camping party were rescued.

In Hamburg, two fishermen feared drowned in storm-tossed Lake Erie drifted ashore early today clinging to their overturned boat. A companion was drowned, Hamburg police said.

Police said Charles Heslop of Lackawanna was the victim.

The survivors were Staley Lelito of Bladell and John Stadnik of Orchard Park. They were reported suffering from exposure.

Ban On Water Use

In Syracuse, Mayor William F. Walsh imposed a ban Tuesday on lawn-sprinkling and automobile washing in the southeastern section of the city and bordering suburban areas because a high rate of water consumption had reduced pressure below the fire-protection level.

Officials of the Latham Water District, which covers most of the Town of Colonie, an Albany suburb, banned all outside use of water until further notice. The water level at the district's reservoir has fallen sharply.

Similar restraints are in force in the Erie County communities of Cheektowaga and Amherst.

To Meet on Incinerator

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, as chairman of a special committee named to deal with the city's refuse disposal problem, announced that on Tuesday night, July 9, the committee will meet in the planning board office, City Hall, with supervisors from the towns of Ulster, Esopus and Hurley to discuss an incinerator proposal.

Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, also announced a meeting slated for July 11 in the city court room, City Hall, for discussion of plans for a sidewalk on Mary's Avenue. Property owners on the street, and the city engineer are due to attend.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy was voted permission to attend the convention of the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police at Elmira July 21 through 25.

Republican alderman Edward J. Schrowang, First Ward, who is at camp with the local National Guard unit, and Robert P. Slover, Fourth Ward, who has been ill, were absent.

PRESCRIPTION PRICES

How are prescription prices determined? We have a policy in this matter, the only one we can follow. We do not offer bargains in prescriptions — there is no cut-rate way to health. Nor do we pretend to under-sell. Prescription prices simply are determined by the cost of the ingredients and operating expense. The prices we charge are as low as satisfactory service and effective drugs will allow.

Pike Mural at Uptown Bank Records Kingston Heritage

The first public showing of an historical mural painted by John Pike of Woodstock for Kingston Savings Bank took place in the bank's lobby, 273 Wall Street, Kingston, today.

At the same time, an exhibition of 15 of Pike's works went on view for a two-week period.

The new mural is an historical montage emphasizing community cultural contributions and the importance as an innovator in transportation, by sail and by steam, on the river and overland, of the "mother-city" of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

The background depicts the Catskill Mountains. Below are the original Kingston City Hall as architecturally conceived after the Palazzo Vecchio of Florence, Italy, before the fire of 1927; the Old Dutch Church spire; the Ulster County Court-house, the Senate House, county clerk's office, and a typical Hudson Valley octagonal house. Reminiscent of the days when hemlock tanning and bluestone quarrying were the major industries of the region, is the severely Gothic office building of the Fitch Brothers bluestone shipping yard on the Rondout Creek.

River Activity Shown

In the foreground are a Hudson River sloop, a Civil War era steam locomotive, the Clermont, the beloved Mary Powell, the Half Moon, and a canal-boat. A pair of oxen yoked to a rude cart illustrates the earliest settlers' prime mover. There is also an interpretation of the heroic statue of Henry Hudson by John Massey Rhind which stands on Academy Green.

While the artist John Pike has been honored with many one-man shows—eight by the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York City alone—the Kingston Savings Bank's current loan exhibition is the most comprehensive showing of his works in his home community.

Most of the works have been inspired by the Catskill Mountains region. Included in the collection are: Lagoon at Dawn, September Evening, Bird Hunter, Reconn Flight, Winter Formation, Toolshed, Spring Showers, Lagoon Teahouse, Jamaica Fisherman, Late Arrivals, Corn Crib, Hunter's Hill, Wet Summer, Winter, Twilight, and Jungle Gym.

Lloyd R. LeFever, president of the bank, has extended an invitation to the public to view the new mural and the one-man show of Pike's works. The exhibit will remain on display in the bank lobby until Friday, July 12, and is open to the public during banking hours.

Suit Preference Has Pitfalls

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

From time immemorial the play of an unnecessary high card has either shown strength or at least asked partner to play the suit, while the play of a low card has shown the opposite.

Of late this has been complicated by the so-called suit preference signal, but my general advice to all players is to forget about suit preference unless the signal is obvious and concentrate on the old fashioned meaning of the signal.

East dropped the nine of diamonds on his partner's king. East wanted his partner to continue diamonds, but West had read all about suit preference signals and shifted to a heart.

South won in his own hand with the king and promptly cashed the ace and king of spades. West showed out whereupon South went over to dummy with a club and took the proven finesse against East's jack of spades. Then he drew trumps and discarded one diamond on a club and one on a heart.

Had West led a second diamond South would have had to ruff in dummy. Then he would have led a spade to his ace and almost surely played a second high spade.

West would have shown out and South would have known about the trump situation, but would have had no way to pick up East's jack. He could try some sort of coup, but if East refused to ruff in and discarded the right cards the coup would not develop.

CHRYSLER CORPORATION WINNERS! PLYMOUTH & VALIANT

AND STILL CLIMBING Here's why:

The reasons for this sales success are numerous. Styling is one. Public acceptance of the smart new look of Plymouth and Valiant has been overwhelming. Performance is another. People who take test drives discover that these two fine automobiles have zip and power to spare. A look at price tags shows Plymouth and Valiant to be among the lowest in their classes. And when you consider quality of workmanship, Plymouth and Valiant are outstanding. They have America's longest and best new-car warranty—5 years or 50,000 miles.* So if you'd like to ride with a winner this year, see and drive the new '63 Plymouth or Valiant. Do it this week.

*Based on comparison of sales for May, 1962, with May, 1963.
*Your Authorized Plymouth-Valiant Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Plymouth-Valiant Certified Car Care schedules.

Will 'Discover' Negroes

State Plans School
'Integration' Course

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Demonstrating the Negro's role "in the mainstream of American life" will be the goal of a program the State Education Department will introduce this fall for use in public schools throughout the state.

The department's division of intercultural relations has drafted the plan for "academic integration"—to make pupils aware that Negroes, as well as white men and women, had made contributions to the arts, sciences and other fields.

"Generations of children have gone through school learning almost nothing about the Negro in America beyond the fact that Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves," Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. said in explaining the need for the program.

Furnish Guidelines

The Education Department will not require individual schools to implement the program but will furnish materials and guidelines for those that wish to do so.

Mrs. Nida E. Thomas of the intercultural division staff said that teachers in various subjects would give Negroes "a normal kind of introduction in a normal kind of way."

One purpose, she said, would be to end the stereotype that many children take from school into adult life—"that of Negroes eating watermelon and picking cotton."

The new program will be divided initially into two phases—one for pupils in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, the other for seniors in high school. A plan for junior-high schools will be developed later.

In the elementary grades, the approach will involve research projects, displays and use of still and motion pictures.

The teacher will not make periodic declarations that a particular man or woman named is a Negro but will try to guide the pupils into discovering it for themselves.

Would Discover Identities

For example, pupils in a music appreciation class might make a display of pictures of leading opera stars and thereby discover that Leontyne Price is a Negro.

The names of the late Dr. Charles Drew, who pioneered in methods of preserving blood plasma, or Dr. Daniel Hale Williams, a heart surgeon, might be introduced in a health class in a research project in which pupils would discover both were Negroes.

The same result could be achieved through assigning outside reading.

Another approach might be to invite Negroes prominent in various fields to lecture a class.

In senior classes in high school, a study of the federal judiciary might be used as an opportunity to explore famous civil rights cases, such as the one leading to the 1954 decision that public school segregation was unconstitutional.

Rejected Separate Courses

Another possibility suggested for the senior level is to have a class dramatize how the student government would deal with a hypothetical case of racial discrimination against a member of the class.

In adopting its approach, the Education Department rejected the idea of a separate course on Negro history, on the ground this could be a form of discrimination in itself—treating the Negro apart from the normal course of historical events.

Mrs. Thomas said that many teachers and other educators long had been seeking ways to pay more attention to the role of Negroes in various fields but that materials were lacking.

School and community libraries, for example, had nothing that would identify Negroes who had made contributions.

Where such materials are not readily available locally, the Education Department will provide specific names. Otherwise, it will identify research material.

Indict Four Men
For Smut Mail

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Four men—a photographer, a businessman, a lawyer and a coin-machine vendor—were under indictment today on charges of sending obscene matter through the mail.

A federal grand jury returned a 14-count indictment Monday against Frederick Tanner of Auburn, a studio photographer; Frank Hammett of Utica, a businessman; Leslie M. Miller of New York City, a lawyer, and Albert Simonovitz of Brooklyn, a coin-machine vendor.

The four are accused of sending and receiving through the mail letters, photographs and other materials "of an obscene, lewd, lascivious, indecent, filthy and vile nature." The indictment covers a two-year period beginning in June 1961.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Dante M. Scaccia said in Syracuse today that the mailing operation was "extensive" and that mail was generated through an advertisement in a Toronto newspaper. Some of the ads, he said, received as many as 300 responses.

Mrs. Michael Maxon, Kingston, Route 119, was a Shokan caller last Thursday. Mrs. Maxon was accompanied here by the following relatives, Mrs. Daniel Valentine, Norwalk, Conn., and Mrs. Harold Mower, Kingston, Route 2.

Robert Donovan, Town of Delhi young man, was numbered among recent graduates at the Delhi Technical and Agricultural Institute.

Reservoir Country 50 years ago: One of the most talked about condemnation cases in Ashokan Reservoir legal proceedings during late waterworks years was the famous ginseng case of Emma Cudney whose farm at Olive was number 643 on the long list of such proceedings. May 20, 1913, a session of the appellate division of Supreme Court at Albany was convened by discussion of Mrs. Cudney's claim for damages to her ginseng growing business, and the matter also was the subject of lively discussion throughout the county.

It was testified at the hearing that the local woman had 6,000 of these valuable plants and 15,000 ungerminated seeds in her ginseng beds; that there was a steady market for the roots in China where they were highly prized for their aphrodisiac qualities, that the market price for roots was $7 a pound and the seeds brought $15 to $30 a thousand. All this and much more was brought out by Judge Alphonso T. Clearwater, learned counsel for claimant, who said that "You have to handle these seeds as carefully as you would babies and then you have to wait seven years for the crop to mature. An Ashokan commission had previously awarded Mrs. Cudney $8,707.50.

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of silver on the futures market in London has been pushed above the monetary value of U.S. government stocks. The cash price in New York has risen this week to a whisker of the official price.

But don't start melting down your silver coins. They're worth more as they are in the metals markets.

Resigned to Paying More

The U.S. Treasury has enough silver on hand to maintain its official valuation thanks to the recent direction by Congress to stop backing $1 and $2 bills with the metal.

The Treasury can use this released hoard for its increasing coinage needs without competing with other consumers in the London market.

Silver dealers say the Treasury stock hangs over the market to prevent any runaway price for industrial or art uses here at home — although consumers are resigned to having to pay more for their supplies.

The price rise on the world markets—and the steadily mounting demands that back that increase—comfort many mining operators in the United States. Silver thus becomes for them a profitable by-product of their main lines of copper, lead and zinc—and at a time when lead and zinc prices themselves are firming.

The spot price for silver on the price-setting London market rose on Tuesday to $1.292 an ounce. For August delivery the price went to $1.297 or higher, with as much as $1.308 an ounce bid for delivery in June 1964.

Consumption Ahead of Output

The monetary value of the U.S. government's silver stocks is $1.292 an ounce. In New York the cash price was lifted by dealers 0.3 cent an ounce Monday to $1.288.

The spurt in price this week was credited to active buying in London due to increased demand by some European nations for both coinage and industrial uses.

Consumption of silver worldwide has been running well above mine output. Electronics and various space age devices have increased the use of the metal. Affluent societies both here and abroad have increased their buying of household and other silver objects. And the number of silver coins needed for vending machines, turnstiles and generally higher consumer purchases has put a strain on many nations' mints.

The case involved a Bronx real estate man who lost his gasoline credit card. The finder bought $500 worth of gasoline, tires and oil.

The appellate division of the State Supreme Court affirmed Monday a ruling last year by Civil Court that the Bronx man had to pay the bill.

Two Major Objectives in Focus

Demos Eye Big-Name Foe
For Keating, Fast Start

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The next big election is still more than a year away, but New York State Democrats already are focusing on two major objectives:

—A big-name candidate for senator.

—Time to Make Hay

—A start that will give him time to make hay in the hustings. Republicans and Democrats will engage in two major contests in 1964. One will be President Kennedy's expected bid for a second term, in which New York State's 43 electoral votes will play a key part. The race will have added spice if Gov. Rockefeller is Kennedy's Republican opponent.

The second will be an all-out Democratic effort to unseat Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester Republican and the President's persistent critic on Cuba.

The governorship will not be at stake next year.

But fresh in the minds of all Democratic leaders is the party's failure to topple Rockefeller as governor last year and thus reduce his stature as a presidential possibility.

The Democratic nominee against Rockefeller was U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau of Manhattan, son of a former U.S. Treasury secretary, highly respected by his colleagues, but virtually unknown to the public.

He lost to Rockefeller by more than half a million votes.

Seek Familiar Name

This time, the Democrats are eyeing a senatorial candidate whose name already is familiar to oppose Keating. While the formal selection is not scheduled until next summer, they want an agreement which will spotlight one man—and soon. Under this theory, the nominee, when named, simply will shift from unofficial to official campaigning.

The possibilities most frequently mentioned are Mayor Robert F. Wagner, 53, of New York City, and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, 46, of Amsterdam, one of the best Democratic vote-getters from northern New York.

Make It Last

If there is no opportunity to retouch your lipstick, make the first application last by allowing it to set before blotting. Then dust a small amount of powder on your lips. Apply a second coat of lipstick and allow to set before re-blotting.

mally Republican "Upstate New York.

Others whose names have been heard are former Gov. W. Averell Harriman, 71, now undersecretary of state and a Kennedy troubleshooter in foreign fields; Frank S. Hogan, 61, Manhattan district attorney; Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 48, undersecretary of commerce and son of the best Democratic vote-getter on record; and James A. Farley, 75, former postmaster general and onetime Democratic national chairman.

None has announced as a candidate, but none has shut the door either. Whether any agreement can be reached soon on a single man—either among these or someone as yet unmentioned with less experience but more popular appeal—is problematical.

See Democratic Year

Most Democrats feel that, with Kennedy at the top of the ticket, 1964 will be a Democratic year, and few candidates are likely to slough off the chance lightly.

The party may have taken a step to make early concentration easier, however, by abandoning the convention method of nomination in favor of choosing the candidate through a 300-member state committee. The effect of this may hurt Wagner, since conventions in the past—because of New York City's heavy Democratic vote—have usually been dominated by city delegates.

But New York mayors traditionally are unsuccessful in seeking higher office, either as governor or senator. Both Wagner and Hogan have lost in previous bids for the Senate; Wagner to Republican Jacob K. Javits in 1956; Hogan to Keating in 1958.

Possibly the most serious problem facing the Democratic Party is Republican Keating's popularity.

A relative unknown outside his own congressional district when he was elected in 1958, Keating has gained national prominence by his early warnings of a Russian buildup in Cuba and by his attacks on Kennedy Cuban policy.

He also has traveled widely through the state, building up personal contacts with voters.

But Democratic leaders point out that in 1958 Keating was on the same ticket with the popular Rockefeller, and next year he will be running against a ticket headed by Kennedy.

Holiday Weekend Will Feature Two Concerts In Maverick Hall; Ruth Conway Will Sing

Area audiences will be privileged to enjoy two unusual Maverick Concerts this weekend. The first, to take place Saturday evening at 8:30 at the Maverick Hall will feature Woodstock's own Ruth Conway.

Miss Conway made her official debut as Azucena in Verdi's Il Trovatore in Ulm, Germany in 1961, and also has to her credit an appearance as the witch in the world premiere of Lou Harrison's modern opera, "Rapunzel." She has appeared in solo recital, chamber music concerts and was soloist with the Jeunesses Chorale in Vienna in the Bach "Magnificat."

Brought up in the Woodstock

Art colony in a home where a profound love of music predominated, Miss Conway studied privately and at Oberlin Conservatory.

Ilse Sass will accompany Miss Conway at the piano and Barbara Cohn, Miss Conway's younger sister and a student at the Fine Arts Department of the Boston Conservatory of Music and a student of Pasquale Cardillo, clarinetist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will assist Miss Conway in a portion of the program.

On Sunday at 3 p. m., Joseph Wolman at the piano, John Wummer, flutist, and David Sackson, violinist, will offer an unusual program devoted to the music of the Bach family. Not only will this esteemed trio play the work of Johann Sebastian but compositions by three of his talented sons will also be performed.

John Wummer is known to local audiences having performed here previously. David Sackson, another performer familiar to local concertgoers, was a student of William Kroll who will perform at the Maverick this summer. Mr. Sackson founded the Phoenix Quartet in 1954 for the purpose of presenting newly discovered and heretofore unknown works and is a musician not only of reputation but a musicologist as well.

Joseph Wolman has been a steady performer at the Maverick Concerts for many years and his musicianship has created a devoted and steadily growing audience.

TELEPHONING INVITATIONS

Q: I have recently taken a job as social secretary and am not sure of the right thing to do in telephoning invitations for my employer to a dinner party. Do I ask to speak to the person to be invited, or do I convey the message to whoever answers the telephone, such as the butler or maid? Also, what is the correct thing to say?

A: You may leave the message with a member of the household staff, saying, "Will you please ask Mr. and Mrs. Smith if they will dine with Mrs. Henry Jones next Tuesday, the tenth at eight o'clock? Mrs. Jones's telephone number is Regent 4-0011."

Bride Prefers Her Youngest Brother

Q: Since my father is not living I have to choose one of my three brothers to give me away at my wedding. My two older brothers are married and while I am very fond of them I do not feel as close to them as I do my youngest brother who is unmarried and lives at home. I'd like my youngest brother to give me away but my mother feels that this privilege rightfully belongs to my oldest brother. May I please have your opinion on this?

A: Your mother is right, but I think everyone, including your oldest brother, will understand and not criticize your choosing your youngest brother who is nearer your own age and naturally closer to you because he still lives at home.

Two Waiters Serve One Table

Q: When a group of say about 10 people dine in a restaurant and two waiters serve the table, is it necessary to give each of them a separate tip?

A: No, the tip is given to the one who brings the check and he divides it with the other.

The clothes of the bride's and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Correct Clothes for a Wedding Reception." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

MR. AND MRS. JAMES T. RODDEN (Photo Workshop)

Elaine Fay Schryver, James T. Rodden Exchange Marriage Vows in Kingston

In Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kingston, on Sunday, June 23 at 2 p. m., marriage vows were exchanged by Elaine Fay Schryver of 74 Abryn Street, this city, and James T. Rodden, 64 Ponckhockie Street. Officiating was the Rev. Carl J. Goette. Fay R. Schryver was the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Schryver of 74 Abryn Street and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clifford Sinsabaugh of 64 Ponckhockie Street and the late James Rodden.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full length gown of silk organza over taffeta. It was styled with a Sabrina neckline, long fitted sleeves and lace cummerbund. The bell shaped skirt ended in a long cathedral train accented with lace appliques. A queen's crown of seed pearls held a full fingertip veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

For the occasion, the altar was decorated with white gladioli, white Fuji mums and pompons. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

A maid of honor, Miss Marion Damonico, and a matron of honor, Mrs. Dale Short, both of Kingston, attended the bride. Attendants were Miss Sally Ellsworth of Port Ewen, Mrs. Berton E. Delamater of Hurley, sister of the bride, Mrs. William Ziros of Kingston, another sister.

All wore full length gowns of powder blue silk organza. The brides featured bateau necklines, elbow length sleeves and bell shaped skirts. The gowns also featured full back panels originating at the shoulderlines and terminating at the hemlines. Large bows of silk organza held short circular veils.

The maid of honor and matron of honor carried cascades of white butterfly roses with blue delphinium and ivy. The attendants carried pink roses with blue delphinium and ivy and the flower girl, Miss Deborah Ann Ziros, the bride's niece, carried a miniature cascade of pink sweetheart roses and ivy. Miss Ziros was attired in a powder silk organza dress.

William R. Rodden of 64 Ponckhockie Street was best man for his brother. Ushers were Harry J. Schryver, brother of the bride; William Cornelski, John Secreto, Richard Amato and Timothy Scherer, junior usher. Gregory Sinsabaugh, brother of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given afterwards at The Flamingo, Route 9W, near Saugerties.

The bride is a graduate of Immanuel Lutheran School and Kingston High School, class of 1960. She is employed in the classified advertising department of The Kingston Daily Freeman. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School, class of 1960, and is employed by Hudson Cement Company.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Rodden left on a wedding trip to Lake George. For traveling, Mrs. Rodden wore a moss green knit suit and a corsage of white roses.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR C. RINGWALD

Miss Beverly J. Van Voorhis of Saugerties Is Wed to Arthur C. Ringwald on June 30th

The double ring wedding of Miss Beverly Jane Van Voorhis and Arthur C. Ringwald was solemnized 2 p. m. Sunday, June 30, at the Saugerties Reformed Church with the Rev. Orville J. Hine, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Voorhis of 21 Ulster Avenue, Saugerties. Mr. Ringwald is the son of John Ringwald Sr. of Coeymans Hollow and the late Mrs. Ringwald.

Howard Hotelling was organist. Gladioli and pompons decorated the church for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza over taffeta fashioned with a basque bodice, shirred abbreviated sleeves and a Sabrina neckline of hand clipped Alencon lace. The full skirt terminated in a chapel length circular train. Her wide silk illusion veil was shirred to a crown of lace and seed pearls. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Theodore Lounsbury of Windham was matron of honor. She wore a gown of cherry organza over matching taffeta styled with a fitted bodice, abbreviated sleeves and a scooped neckline. The full skirt was floor length and she wore a crown edged with aurora crystals with a circular tulle veil.

Theodore Lounsbury was best man for his brother-in-law, Homer Van Voorhis, the brides twin brother and Robert Van Voorhis of Preston Hollow, another brother, were ushers. A reception was held at the Flamingo following the ceremony.

For traveling, the bride wore an aqua knit suit with white accessories. Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will reside at 28 Grandview Avenue, Catskill.

A graduate of Saugerties High School, the bride is employed at IBM, Kingston.

Mr. Ringwald is a Ravena High School graduate and is employed as an operating engineer at Albany.

On June 25, members of the Kingston High School Class of 1963 received their diplomas. The commencement program took place in municipal auditorium. Dan H. Allen, principal, presented the class and graduates received their diplomas from Andrew T. Gikday, president of the board of education.

The two top graduates, Richard Kline, valedictorian, and Neil Miller, salutatorian, gave their speeches.

The Kingston High School Choir, under the direction of Leonard Stine, director of music, sang Schubert's "The Omnipotence," and the KHS orchestra played under the baton of Markian Baczynsky.

Mt. Cathalia Playhouse Opens
By DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

Oklahoma cowboys and maids have taken over a portion of the well-known Mt. Cathalia Ski Lodge this week. They are equipped complete with ten gallon hats, boots, fist fights—the girls in colorful dresses carrying picnic baskets. And last night, this group of talented boys and girls staged the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical OKLAHOMA.

It was a gala opening production for Peter Symcox, director, and Anthony Carone, executive producer. The singing, choreography, sets and costumes, provided an enjoyable evening for a capacity house of 300.

The musical OKLAHOMA needs no introduction. This very well known Broadway hit received kind and considerate treatment from the cast and production staff of Mt. Cathalia Playhouse.

CAROLYN CHRISMAN made a very charming Laurey Williams and FRANK COLEMAN, her romantic interest, was relaxed and confident. Curly McLaine, the music in OKLAHOMA lacks challenge for Miss Chrisman who has more than 20 leading roles in opera and operettas to her credit. She was at her best in a duet with Coleman when a truer vocal brilliance was in evidence. Her emergence as a lead in a Broadway type production can, however, be deemed a success.

COLEMAN'S singing was a great asset to the production. He has a fine baritone voice and knows how to use it. Coleman has appeared with the Bronx Civic Opera Company and the Empire Opera Association. He has an extensive background in the musical comedy and drama field.

ROBERT J. MCKNIGHT, who took the role of Jud Fry, the evil-minded farm hand who gets his just award in the final scene of the last act, is a good performer. Convincing in his role, McKnight is also gifted with a good voice for musicals.

BILL PHILLIPS as Ali Hakim, the peddler, certainly deserves applause. In providing comedy in the popular musical, along with a talented Sandy Gary who was Aunt Eller, Phillips displayed complete control of his characterization. Phillips recently signed with Roemer-Young Productions for a role in "Nothing But A Man." He is now working on a satiric comedy album dealing with a Southern Evangelist in New York City, "Sin Capital, USA." I imagine he should be very good.

Taking the production as a whole, the outstanding portions were the dream sequence, done by Louise Vance, Joel Brehm, Jerry Anderson, Harriet Sheldon, John Walton, David Glazer and Pamela Morrison; the entire cast singing the title song OKLAHOMA, the duet PEOPLE WILL SAY WE'RE IN LOVE by Miss Chrisman and Mr. Coleman and the scene in the smokehouse when McKnight and Coleman sing POOR JUD.

Also taking part in the successful first night were Bob Shayne, Linda Rider, June Daniels, Clifton Steere, Cheryl Jackson, Mary Lynn, Harriet Sheldon, Mary Purner, Joan Kenley, John Welton, Joel Brehm, David Owen, Joe Barnaba, Jerry Anderson and Pamela Morrison.

Other assets I noted included the easy rapport between the singers and the musical director JOHN WHITE, the expert changing of scenes under the direction of GENE VICKERY, set designer, and MICHAEL DUVARD, stage manager; and good lighting techniques by JOEL BREHM.

The only disturbing elements: Mt. Cathalia Playhouse is a small auditorium which makes one especially conscious of stamping feet and noisy entrances and exits by the cast. There are times when dialogue and sung phrases are lost and the all-girl chorus showed weaknesses in certain numbers.

But if you want to spend a pleasant evening with another couple atop a mountain where the air is certainly cool and delicious, if you want to see a top Broadway musical performed by a cast of talented, up and coming stars, then I would recommend Mt. Cathalia Playhouse. The climb via winding roads is worth it and you can even take a ride on the chair lift — for relaxation of course!

Mystery Comedy at Woodstock Playhouse

"A Shot in the Dark" one of the biggest Broadway hits of the 1961-62 season, is now playing at the Woodstock Playhouse through July 7.

On Broadway Julie Harris played the character that Loretta Levesque portrays — that of a parlor maid named Josefa in a wealthy Parisian household, and she is thoroughly reprehensible on just about every possible count — but all the male characters in the play find her enchanting.

Marcel Achard's original French comedy on which Harry Kurnitz based "A Shot in the Dark," was entitled "L'Idiotie," which means what you think it does despite the added "e" to denote the feminine gender, but not disparagingly. In French it had something of the sense of "Little Fool."

An foolish Josefa is — or at least naive. When an investigator, played by Carlton Colyer, is questioning her about the murder that she seems so likely to have committed, she quite agreeably says "Oh, I'll be glad to confess if you'll let me go."

John Leighton plays the lofty master of the house and Ann Sydney and Virginia Downing are seen as the wives — Antonette and Dominique. Robert Heller and Wil Albert complete the cast which is directed by Stephen Randall. Eric Martin has designed the magistrate's faded office and the lighting is by Samuel W. H. Bowler.

Folk Concerts

The Woodstock Playhouse series of midnight folk concerts will open this Saturday night at midnight with Billy Faier, banjo player — well-known folk singer. Mr. Faier is known to local audiences, having played concerts here for the past six years. He is one of the country's outstanding banjo players and has concentrated and recorded extensively. Doors will open at 11:40. Other artists slated for the midnight series are the Rev. Gary Davis, Tom Paxton, John Winn and others to be announced.

Miss Thelma Friedman, Dr. M. L. Grossman Are Wed in Garden Ceremony Here June 30

The wedding of Miss Thelma Sylvia Friedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Friedman of 1 Dietz Court and Dr. Melvyn Lester Grossman of Middletown, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin K. Grossman of Manhattan took place Sunday, June 30 in the garden of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel assisted by Cantor Larry Jacobs officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the canopy of blue and white flowers by her parents. Other decorations for the occasion included large baskets of white gladioli and blue daisies. Aisle was marked with white ribbon.

The former Miss Friedman wore a gown of white silk organza in modified sheath style, fashioned with fitted bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and bateau neckline. A flange lace panel accented the front of the gown and the bouffant back featured a chapel-length train. Her triple tiered veil of silk illusion was shirred to a crown of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of white orchids and swansonia with ivy foliage.

Mrs. Lee Neuringer of Wellesley, Mass., was honor attendant for her sister. She wore a blue dress with white val lace in narrow ruffled tiers and carried an arrangement of blue daisies, bachelor buttons and larkspur. Dr. Leonard Griff, of Brooklyn was best man. Ushers were Martin J. Friedman of Flushing, brother of the bride and Lee Neuringer of Wellesley, Mass., brother-in-law of the bride.

A dinner dance was held in the Governor Clinton Hotel Crystal Room following the ceremony. Bouquets of white carnations and blue daisies decorated the tables and baskets of white gladioli, carnations and blue daisies were the backdrop for the bride's table.

State Leader Retires

ITHACA, N. Y. — "With Miss Van Rensselaer held up as an example to me from childhood on, Extension work in home economics almost had to be my career," says Miss Rachel A. Merritt, assistant state leader of home demonstration agents, who retired June 30 after 32 years with the New York State Cooperative Extension Service.

In her present position, to which she was appointed in 1957, Miss Merritt has supervised the staff and programs of Extension Service home departments in various parts of the state. During the past five years she worked with eight counties in southeastern New York.

In addition to her administrative and supervisory responsibilities, Miss Merritt has written several publications including home demonstration agent recruitment leaflets and booklets on practice and procedures for home demonstration units. A pictorial and narrative brochure of home demonstration work, "Home Economics Extension—Education for Living," is now being printed.

Miss Merritt, a native of Sheridan, N. Y., was graduated from Dunkirk High School and in 1928 from the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell University. During subsequent study at Teachers College, Columbia University, she received the M.A. degree.

Following graduation from Cornell, Miss Merritt taught home economics in Alexandria Bay, N. Y., for three years before beginning her career in Extension. She served as an assistant home demonstration agent and 4-H agent in Jefferson County, 1931-35; as home demonstration agent in St. Lawrence County, 1935-42; and as agent in Madison County, 1942-46. For 11 years Miss Merritt held the position of home demonstration agent-at-large, carrying out the duties of personnel who were on sabbatical leave. In this capacity she worked with the Extension Service home department executive committee and staff in 20 different counties, including Ulster County.

In 1951, Miss Merritt was cited for outstanding service by the National Home Demonstration Agents' Association. She is a member of the State and National Home Demonstration Agents' Association, the American Home Economics Association, the Adult Education Association, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, honorary Extension fraternity.

Of her work in Extension Miss Merritt says, "Varied as my experiences have been, Extension has been the kind of career I wanted—one of helping families in New York State."

Miss Merritt, who resides at 828 N. Aurora Street, Ithaca, plans to continue living in the Ithaca area.

64 Compete Despite Heat

Mrs. G. Hallenbeck's 75 Paces
Woodstock Women's TourneyCatskill Veteran
Cards Nines 38-37

Catskill Country Club's famed golfing grandmother—Mrs. Gerald Hallenbeck—fired a 5-over-par 75 Tuesday to lead the annual Woodstock Country Club Women's Invitational. Despite the searing heat a field of 64 players competed.

Mrs. Hallenbeck, one of the all-time Hudson valley female greats, toured the hot and humid village links in nines of 38 and 37 to finish six strokes ahead of Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio of the home club.

Mrs. Betty Carnright of Rip Van Winkle Club (Palmville) posted one of the finest rounds of her career to take low net honors in Class A with 82-17-65. She carded nines of 40 and 42.

Class B leader was Mrs. Edith DeWitt of Wiltwyck Country Club with 44-16-90. Her 67 was also low net in the division, but the prize, under the rules, was awarded to Mrs. Hulda Needes of Woodstock with 97-27-70.

Elsie Cussler of Dutchess Golf and Country Club, Poughkeepsie, shot 52-50-102 to lead in Class C gross. Mrs. Alice Marr of Wiltwyck was a stroke behind with 53-50-103. Teresa Klein of Dutchess was awarded low net with 104-32-72.

Has Two Birdies

Mrs. Hallenbeck picked up two birdies during the day with a 3 on the par-three 9th hole and a "3" on the par-4 17th (eighth) the second time around the nine-hole layout.

A horrendous "11" on the 7th hole knocked Mrs. deLisio out of the running. One over par at the end of six holes, she hit three balls out of bounds after a good drive down the middle of the fairway. She was out in 44 and recovered nicely with 37. Third place in Class A gross went to Mrs. Allen Dean Elwyn of the host club with 39-44-83. Mrs. Elwyn missed an ace by inches on the 9th hole. Linda Smythe of Catskill lapped 10 strokes off an opening 47 to post 47-37-84.

Mrs. Hallenbeck's card:
Par out . . . 444 354 443-35
Hallenbeck 554 354 352-38
Par in . . . 444 354 443-35-70
Hallenbeck 445 356 433-37-75

Putting Winners
Winners of the putting awards were: Class A, Mrs. Roland

Riegel, Shawangunk CC (Ellenville), 32 putts; Class B, Mrs. Sally Van Wagenen, Woodstock, 31 putts; Tied in Class C, with 33 putts were: Mrs. Claire Shaeffer, Woodstock; Mrs. Edward Passmore, Shawangunk; and Mrs. Roger Chiquette, Wiltwyck.

Harry Brazee, winner of last week's feature event, heads Sunday's stock car program at Pine Bowl Speedway, located at Snyder's Corner, Route 150, five miles south of Troy, N. Y.

McKinley Dumps
German Net Star
To Reach Finals

By JOHN FARROW

Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, America's No. 1 player, paraded through Wimbledon of Germany, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6 today, to reach the finals of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships for the second time in three years.

McKinley, who has yet to lose a set in six matches, had little trouble with the lanky Bungert, who knocked off top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia in a five-set quarter-final match.

McKinley was a finalist in 1961, when he lost to Rod Laver of Australia, now a pro. No American has won at Wimbledon since Tony Trabert in 1955, and McKinley is the only American to reach the finals since that year.

Seeded fourth, McKinley who is a student at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., ruined the unseeded Bungert's bid to be the first German in the Wimbledon finals since Baron Gottfried von Cramm in 1937.

It is quite easy to top the ball when it is played from a sidehill lie from below the level of the feet.

Sometimes it is pretty difficult to keep balance.

Grip the club as far up as you comfortably can. This, of course, puts the clubhead closer to the ball in its awkward position. Remain leaning toward the ball in the backswing.

If you pull the body up from the waistline it will ruin the arc of the swing and possibly cause you to top the ball, which should be played off the left foot. Do not overswing. A shortened swing will help keep balance and do much toward correcting any tendency to slice.

If you can't overcome the inclination to slice, shoot a bit to the left of the line of flight to compensate.

Fastballing young Al Downing fired the New York Yankees along with a sparkling one-hit pitching gem, and teen-aged right-hander Dave Morehead pulled the Boston Red Sox out of a spin with a two-hitter.

But the Minnesota Twins flexed batting muscle to keep their drive going in the American League Tuesday night.

When you kill a lot of time, think of the opportunities you may be murdering!

Stay out all night and in bed all day—then try and find your place in the sun.

When Mom's sick or away for a visit, Dad does the cancan at mealtime.

The bathing girl each year may look somewhat different, yet the men always look the same, at the bathing girl.

You'll know where you went on vacation, but not where the money went.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius Trade Mark Reg.

The largest flowers don't always have the best odors. The biggest flower in the world is the Malaysian, stemless, leafless Rafflesia Arnoldi which measures three feet across and weighs 15 pounds, but it emits a carrion-like odor.

Every wife wants to be her husband's dream girl except when he buys her clothes—then she wants them to fit.

Before My Time
For the glories of the good old days
I really do not care.
In fact whenever possible
I pretend I was not there.
—Maurice Seitter

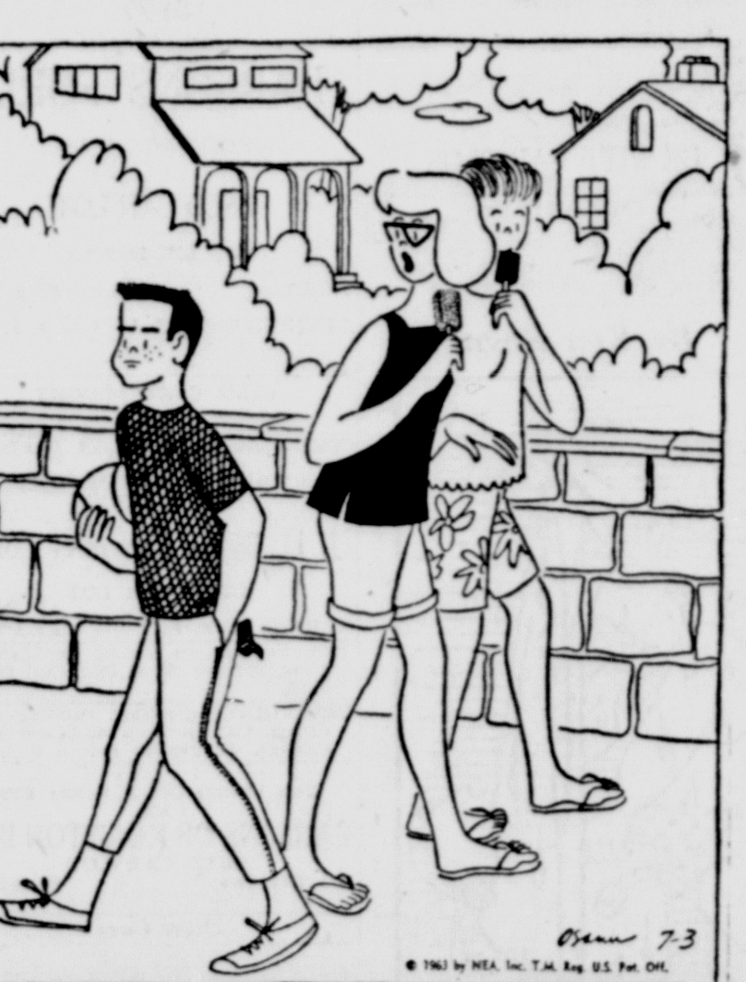

Nearly every citizen of our country has heard of Fort Knox and its 'buried treasure', but relatively few people know that the second largest gold depository in our country is the United States mint at Denver, Colo. Uncle Sam has about $6 billion worth stored for safekeeping there.

Junior—Mommy, why does Aunt Lily always hate telephones so much?
Mother—You see, a man proposed marriage to her over the telephone once and it wasn't until after she accepted that he found out he had the wrong number.

Sunday-school Teacher—As you know, each child is asked to write a passage from the Bible and turn it in with his donation to the collection-box.
Father—Yes.

TIZZY

By KATE OSANN

Sunday-school Teacher—Well, I don't think Tommy's was quite proper.
Father—No? What did it say?
Sunday-school Teacher—A fool and his money are soon parted.
The first White House telephone was installed in 1878, under the direction of Rutherford Hayes, 19th President of the USA. From that time on, and for the next 50 years the president's telephone was placed in a booth near his office and not inside. The first chief executive to have a telephone on his desk was President Hoover and in the year 1929.

WANT-AD WONDERS

Want Ad Reactivates Career Of Bette Davis

I was sick for a long time...

My marriage fell apart...

I made 7 films, 6 were flops...

...nobody wanted Bette Davis any more. The career of the illustrious star had fallen.

With a lot of courage Bette went to Broadway to seek employment. She decided to go back to her first love, Hollywood and took a want ad in a Hollywood trade paper asking for work. Bette got the title role of the middle-aged, has-been child star in "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?"

A performance that won her her 10th nomination for an Academy Award. Bette came back to the top of the film world with a great big bang and started things going with a want ad.

Cool, Pleasant Air Will Hold For Few Days

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Monday:

Eastern New York—Cool pleasant weather for the next two or three days, then a warming trend. Temperatures will average around or just below seasonal normals.

Dry through Friday. Scattered showers likely over the weekend. Rainfall will continue spotty and light.

Western New York — Temperatures are expected to be sharply lower during the next five days, averaging 10 or more degrees below the readings of the past week and two to four degrees below seasonal normals. Much cooler Wednesday night, slow warming through Friday, cooler again over the weekend, moderating again early next week. Precipitation will average about one-quarter inch as scattered showers late Friday and Saturday.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs, 77-83; nighttime lows, 57-61.

Bank Merger Approved For Upstate Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consolidation of the First National Bank of Glens Falls and the First National Bank of Hudson Falls, N.Y. has been approved and will operate under the title of the Glens Falls institution.

Approval of the consolidation was announced Tuesday by James J. Saxon, comptroller of the currency.

As of March 13, the Glens Falls bank had total resources of $4 million compared with $11 million for the Hudson Falls bank.

Saxon said the "financial structure of both communities is practically identical," because of the nearness of the two cities.

George Washington signed the first tariff act on July 4, 1879.

Answers Your Insurance Questions

QUESTION: I am a young man with an average income and I don't own my own home. An insurance agent tried to sell me a big auto liability insurance policy but it seems to me I don't need that big protection. How about it?

ANSWER: You are wrong. You are just as likely to have an accident as a rich man and you could lose a resulting law suit. If you couldn't pay damages you might be paying on a deficiency judgment for the rest of your life. High limit liability insurance costs very little extra.
